The Nature and Origins of Mass Opinion Reconsidered Jeffrey Friedman,2016-02-05 In the Nature and Origins of Mass Opinion 1992 John Zaller set out one of the most influential models of opinion formation he presented the public as a pliable instrument of political elites who are able to garner support simply by sending cues through the mass media telling Republicans or Democrats for example what the Republican or Democratic position is on a given issue Contributors to this volume critically examine Zaller's model and its implications empirical and normative The introduction contrasts two different strands in Zaller's book one of which confines the impact of media messages to politicians cues the other of which emphasizes the impact of journalists interpretive frames Other chapters examine whether elite domination of public opinion is desirable and assess how well Zaller's model has withstood two decades of research Zaller himself contributes a long retrospective in which he modifies some claims defends others and sets out a bold new research agenda This book was published as a special issue of Critical Review A Journal of Politics and Society

Economic Origins of Dictatorship and Democracy Daron Acemoglu,James A. Robinson,2006 This book develops a framework for analyzing the creation and consolidation of democracy Different social groups prefer different political institutions because of the way they allocate political power and resources Thus democracy is preferred by the majority of citizens but opposed by elites Dictatorship nevertheless is not stable when citizens can threaten social disorder and revolution In response when the costs of repression are sufficiently high and promises of concessions are not credible elites may be forced to create democracy By democratizing elites credibly transfer political power to the citizens ensuring social stability Democracy consolidates when elites do not have strong incentive to overthrow it These processes depend on 1 the strength of civil society 2 the structure of political institutions 3 the nature of political and economic crises 4 the level of economic inequality 5 the structure of the economy and 6 the form and extent of globalization
