In the United States today, military involvement is a major part of the American economy. This is because the United States is a major military power, and it spends a lot of money on its military. This money is used to pay for the salaries of military personnel, the cost of military equipment, and the cost of military operations.

Americans Join the War Effort

The Japanese had attacked Pearl Harbor with the intention of starting a war. They wanted to show the world that they were a powerful nation, and they wanted to show the United States that they were a threat. The United States had to respond to this attack, and it did so by declaring war on Japan. This was a major event in American history, and it led to the United States joining the war effort.
