Lucchiari, Nicholas J. Kelley, Maria E. Vanutelli, Roberta Ferrucci, 2019-05-15 The eBook entitled Brain Stimulation and Behavioral Change is a collection of articles about the use of transcranial electric stimulation tES to change behaviors and face pathological conditions to enhance cognition and to explore cerebral functions using safe and non invasive brain modulation techniques The tESs include transcranial direct current stimulation tDCS transcranial alternate current stimulation tACS and due to the way it induces changes in the brain Transcranial Magnetic Stimulation TMS The use of tES has recently exploded Certainly one reason for this explosion of research is that it is a cheap way to change behavior However on the other hand we still know very little about the neural mechanisms that underlie tES The present eBook includes both original studies and reviews It covers a wide scope of arguments including studies aimed at testing the potential ability of tES in mitigating physical and psychiatric symptoms and to support neurological rehabilitation enhancing reading abilities motor abilities and creativity Furthermore some contributions about the role of tES in discovering and mapping the neuro functional correlates of higher cognitive functions are also included The common background of the contributions included in the eBook lies in the idea that we need sound scientific evidence about how to move these techniques from labs to real life contexts Addressing these issues and understanding the real potentialities of tES in clinical and non clinical applications require a significant cross fertilization between disciplines We hope this eBook will be able to boost the discussion on this vital topic      An Assessment Guide To Geriatric Neuropsychology Holly Tuokko, Thomas

Hadjistavropoulos, 2014-04-04 At least half of all neuropsychological assessments are performed on elderly persons but the information clinicians need to make appropriate judgment calls is widely scattered Several books offering general descriptions of the cognitive functioning of the aged or of neuropsychological conditions affecting them are helpful to practitioners but do not provide reliable and valid normative information Two books that do provide this information do not focus on geriatric populations A concise yet comprehensive summary of what we now know about those over 65 with an extensive bibliography An Assessment Guide to Geriatric Neuropsychology fills the gap The neuropsychological assessment of elderly persons involves not only the performance based measurement of various capacities but heavy reliance on reports from caregivers both formal and informal about the day to day functioning of the affected person It also raises important yet often neglected ethical concerns The authors discuss all the measures that detect and discriminate among cognitive disorders of elderly persons including special measures relevant to caregiver reports and provide useful tables to assist in differential diagnosis They also reflect on the ethical issues that often confront the assessor of an elderly individual informed consent confidentiality the right of bodily autonomy and self determination and appropriate feedback This book will be an invaluable resource for all those called on to evaluate older clients Revised Code of Washington Washington (State),2021

Subcommittee on Aging and Long-Term Care, 2005. The Emergence of a Temporally Extended Self and Factors that Contribute to Its Development Mary Lazaridis, 2013. The main aims of the current research were to determine when children develop a temporally extended self (TES) and what factors contribute to its development. However, in order to address these aims, it was important to first assess whether the test of Delayed Self Recognition (DSR) is a valid measure for the development of the TES and second to propose and evaluate a theoretical model that describes what factors influence the development of the TES. The validity of the DSR test was verified by comparing the performance of 57 children on the DSR test to their performance on a meta-representational task, modified false belief task, and to a task that was essentially the same as the DSR test but was specifically designed to rely on the capacity to entertain secondary representations i.e. surprise body task. Longitudinal testing of the children showed that at the mental age MA of 2.5 years they failed the DSR test despite training them to understand the intended functions of the medium used in the DSR test, whereas with training children at the MA of 3.0 and 3.5 years exhibited DSR. Children at the MA of 4 years exhibited DSR without any training. Finally, results suggest that children's meta-representational ability was the only factor that contributed to the prediction of successful performance on the DSR test and thus to the emergence of the TES. That is, children of low elaborative caregivers required significantly more training to pass the DSR test than children of high elaborative caregivers, indicating that children who received more elaborative conversational input from their caregivers had a more advanced understanding of the TES.
