

LUBRICATING OIL PUMP AND OIL FILTER

The oil pump is a mechanical device that circulates oil throughout the engine. It is driven by the crankshaft and is responsible for maintaining a constant oil pressure. The pump consists of a housing, a drive shaft, and a pump body. The oil is drawn from the oil pan and pushed into the oil filter, which then distributes it to the various parts of the engine.

The oil filter is a device that removes contaminants from the oil. It is typically made of a pleated paper or a mesh material. The oil flows through the filter, and any dirt or debris is trapped. The clean oil then flows back into the oil pan. The filter is an essential component of the lubrication system and should be replaced regularly.
