Student Financing of Higher Education Donald Heller,Claire Callender,2013-06-07 The financing of higher education is undergoing great change in many countries around the world In recent years many countries are moving from a system where the costs of funding higher education are shouldered primarily by taxpayers through government subsidies to one where students pay a larger share of the costs There are a number of factors driving these trends including A push for massification of higher education in the recognition that additional revenue streams are required above and beyond those funds available from governments in order to achieve higher participation rates Macroeconomic factors which lead to constraints on overall government revenues Political factors which manifest in demands for funding of over services thus restricting the funding available for higher tertiary education A concern that the returns to higher education accrue primarily to the individual rather than to society and thus students should bear more of the burden of paying for it This volume will help to contribute to an understanding of how these trends occur in various countries and regions around the world and the impact they have on higher education institutions students and society as a whole With contributions for the UK USA South Africa and China this vital new book gives a truly global picture of the rapidly changing situation Higher Education and SDG10 Priya Grover,Nidhi Phutela,Pragya Singh,2025-09-01 This collection of chapters explores the various ways that Higher Education Institutes can address inequality through their core functions of teaching research outreach and engagement Remote Possibilities Amy Jane Conger,2005 Social Work in Social Change Nicci Earle,2008 This study forms part of a series of studies on professions and professional education being conducted by the HSRC s research programme on Education Science Skills Development It follows a pilot study on medical doctors published in 2006 entitled Doctors in a Divided Society The profession and education of medical practitioners in South Africa Like the other studies in the series this study involved developing an understanding of the professional milieu and professional labour market of social workers As the implementers of government social policy social work professionals have been at the forefront of grappling with the practicalities of the changes in focus approach and methods of social security and social service delivery since 1994 It examines developments in the education and training of social workers within the democratic dispensation the most significant of which is the development of a national standardised Bachelor of Social Work degree The study also reveals that the dominant profile in student enrolment and graduation statistics has changed from white female to African female and that enrolment has increased significantly However the study also shows that graduation trends have been negative and losses due to emigration are an additional concern Given the scarcity of these professionals against the demand for their services understanding the factors that contribute to this picture are critical to effective intervention On Campus University of the Western Cape,2003 Umrabulo ,2003 Interpellations, Questions and Replies of the National Assembly South Africa.
