

Student Exploration: Frog Dissection

Vocabulary: anatomy, appendix, diaphragm, dissect, fertilize, heart, large intestines, lungs, lymph vessels, ovary, oviduct, oviseac, rectum, sternum, testis, vasa efferentia, vertebrae

1. Do you think frogs have the same or different organs? Explain. Personally, I believe frogs have the same organs, but it depends on what frog you are like: if you are a female frog, a few organs will be different from the male frog, which is vice versa. For example, Testis, Vasa efferentia, Ureter, Kidney, Bladder, and Cloaca are the reproductive organs of male frogs that female frogs lack therefore these organs are only in male frogs and female frogs have certain organs male frogs lack.

Gizmo Warm-up

Scientists dissect (cut up) other organisms to learn more about their anatomy, or body structure. In doing so, scientists can also learn more about human anatomy. In the Frog Dissection Gizmo, you will complete a virtual dissection of a female and male frog.

First, select the Female frog. Then click on the rotate button (). With the rotate button selected, click and drag on the frog to rotate it. Observe what the female frog looks like.

Now select Show male at the bottom left to switch to the male frog. Rotate around the male frog to observe what it looks like. Click Show male and Show female to toggle back and forth between the two frogs.

1. Describe any differences you see. The difference I noticed between the two frogs (female and male) is primarily that the male frog has a dark patch underneath the mouth. I learned this is because some male frogs have darker colored patches than female frogs. Another difference I saw was a few rough patches on the male frog's thumbs. I learned this is because, during the mating season, some males develop gripper patches on their thumbs.

Activity A:

Female frog anatomy

Get the Gizmo ready:

- Select Show female (if not already selected).
- Click Reset female.

Introduction: Inside the frog's torso are organs that allow the frog to move, breathe, circulate blood, digest food, excrete waste, reproduce, respond to stimuli, and fight off infections. You will dissect a female frog and identify the organs involved in these processes.

Question: How do you dissect a frog?

1. Dissect: Select the Scalpel tool and click on the frog.
2. Dissect: Select the Forceps tool. Click on the skin and muscles a few times.
3. Dissect: Pause for a few seconds. What happens to the skin and muscles? After I clicked on the skin and muscles of the frog a few times, the skin and muscles pulled back, and I could see the organs and different parts of the female frog inside.

Pins are needed to hold the skin and muscles in place or else they might fold back onto the body. Use the forceps to pull the skin and muscles open again and then use the Pins tool to pin the skin and muscles down. (After selecting Pins, click on the skin and muscle flaps.)

4. Identify: Take a look at the Skeletal system diagram at the right side of the Gizmo. Find the outline of the sternum.
