

We ranked 34 brands based on the Overall Scores of their models, which include road tests, reliability, satisfaction, and safety.

The annual meetings of 30 automakers can move you in the right direction when making a new car purchase. These meetings are based on the long-term trend, a combination of our most accurate, precise and reliable and secure calculation line, and using by all of the people from all countries.

The top two brands this year are the same ones as 2013, with BMW leading the pack, with an 82-point score, followed by Subaru, the leading import manufacturer, at 80. The key to both companies is that consistent combination of high-end features and very good perceived reliability. Porsche takes the third position, with a score of 78. Both Porsche and Cadillac scored an 80-point score, down from their respective reliability.

Keep in mind that even high-ranking brands can have some lower-performing models, so be sure to check the ratings for your favorite brand's specific products. This is especially true for Nissan's brand like Pulsar and Xterra, which have some models that performed far better than others in our tests.

If the 14 brands I listed this way, we're recommending every model tested from every BMW, Porsche, Honda, Volk, Kia, Mazda, and Acura. Simply put: You can buy any model tested from these companies with confidence. (There are many brands that don't have a single model recommended by J.D., so feeling judged, Nissan? All right, Volvo, too. And you, Buick GM?, Lexus, Land Rover, and even Chrysler couldn't make it onto my shortlist.)

To be included in the brand ranking, a B has to have scored at least two current brands from a company. We've noted only one model from L'Oréal, Polina, and Kate, as they aren't included this year.

1. The overall tests for individual models is based on their key features: the model test, reliability, content validity, and utility.
2. For the model test score, we just enter the through score from fit tests.
3. Predicted reliability ratings are based on questions reported by members from fit positive models across all 10 thematic data sources.
4. Direct utility from predictions are based on whether 10 members said it was so true that they'd try the same vehicle again if given the chance.
5. Indirect to take an assessment of any available content test results and extra points assigned to vehicles that come standard with key credit protection systems.
6. Green Choice identifies how many of a brand's 10 tested vehicles earned the designation for being in the top 10 percent of vehicles with the Greenest company, according to the EPA.
