Consumer Studies Grade 11 2013 Past Paper:

Food and Cooking Skills Education Anita Tull, 2018-01-29 Food and Cooking Skills Education FCSE is a complex mix of policy and practicality educational theory and pedagogy classroom and government policy This book shows how FCSE has been at the centre of a tussle between education and policy for decades It reviews how FCSE has grappled with various significant issues of concern that threaten to marginalise it and pose problems for educational practicalities as expectations are increased but resources are squeezed It assesses the debate about the significance and importance of acquiring practical food and cooking skills in a society where the purchase of ready made food has become commonplace and public knowledge of where our food comes from is noticeably lacking This has contributed to the escalating incidence of diet related diseases and the attendant cost to society and threatened environmental sustainability In turn governments have reacted by proposals to make practical cooking skills a statutory National Curriculum subject as part of the armoury for tackling such costs Based on detailed research conducted across England and Wales as well as comparisons with thirty five other countries or states the author makes recommendations for policy to manage this challenge facing contemporary society

The Last Mile Dilip Soman, 2015-07-27 Most organizations spend much of their effort on the start of the value creation process namely creating a strategy developing new products or services and analyzing the market They pay a lot less attention to the end the crucial last mile where consumers come to their website store or sales representatives and make a choice In The Last Mile Dilip Soman shows how to use insights from behavioral science in order to close that gap Beginning with an introduction to the last mile problem and the concept of choice architecture the book takes a deep dive into the psychology of choice money and time It explains how to construct behavioral experiments and understand the data on preferences that they provide Finally it provides a range of practical tools with which to overcome common last mile difficulties The Last Mile helps lay readers not only to understand behavioral science but to apply its lessons to their own organizations last mile problems whether they work in business government or the nonprofit sector Appealing to anyone who was fascinated by Dan Ariely's Predictably Irrational Richard Thaler and Cass Sunstein's Nudge or Daniel Kahneman's Thinking Fast and Slow but was not sure how those insights could be practically applied The Last Mile is full of solid concrete advice on how to put the lessons of behavioral science to work

Campus Diversity John M. Carey, Katherine Clayton, Yusaku Horiuchi, 2019-12-19 Media politicians and the courts portray college campuses as divided over diversity and affirmative action But what do students and faculty really think This book uses a novel technique to elicit honest opinions from students and faculty and measure preferences for diversity in undergraduate admissions and faculty recruitment at seven major universities breaking out attitudes by participants race ethnicity gender socio economic status and political partisanship Scholarly excellence is a top priority everywhere but the authors show that when students consider individual candidates they favor members of all traditionally underrepresented groups by race ethnicity gender and socio economic background Moreover there is little evidence of polarization in the attitudes of different student groups The book reveals that campus communities are less deeply divided than they are often portrayed to be although affirmative action remains controversial in the abstract there is broad support for prioritizing diversity in practice Popular Science Monthly and World Advance ,1925 The
