The 21st Century School Library: A Model for Innovative Teaching & Learning Ryan Bani Tahmaseb, 2021-11-05 School libraries stand at the forefront of innovation in education Yet many teachers and administrators do not know what to make of them much less how to best utilize their varied and valuable resources What if school librarians whose field of practice has transformed in the past few decades could show us excellent models for innovative teaching What if the vital adaptations that school librarians have made could help other educators evolve What if the lessons learned in the library could be scaled up to benefit all fields of practice and all students The 21st Century School Library takes an in depth look at the paradigm shifting work that school libraries are doing to advance student learning professional development and school wide engagement It explains how library led forward thinking initiatives can guide all educators teachers and administrators alike toward transformative educational practices It is an inspiring survey of 21st century school libraries whose guiding principles also serve as a blueprint for innovation in K 12 education School libraries and all the educators associated with them offer a compelling vision for the future of K 12 education This book is a roadmap for how to make this vision a reality

A Program Evaluation of Student and Teacher Perceptions of an Online Edgenuity High School Course Program in an Urban High School Titinesha Llewellyn, 2019 This program evaluation is concerned with the value of online learning for academic student achievement as perceived by teachers and students Online learning programs are becoming commonplace within traditional educational settings These types of programs resolve a variety of educational issues related to equal access of curricula funding and quality The current issue lies with educational institutions ability to implement these types of programs using research based methods and strategies that enhance academic student achievement This study initiates the research by identifying the perceptions of the stakeholder participants in the Edgenuity online learning program regarding graduation rates and other comparisons between Edgenuity graduates and non Edgenuity graduates The study captured these perceptions using student surveys teacher interviews and reports from the Edgenuity program and the district s student information system A pragmatic approach was used with mixed methods afforded by the use of the CIPP model from the Use Branch developed by Stufflebeam and Coryn The data analysis process included the use of the Qualtrics survey program to administer and analyze the results from student surveys and coding to analyze the teacher interview responses The study revealed that stakeholders perceived the Edgenuity program as satisfactory with suggested adjustments regarding the processes practices and procedures in an effort to make relevant and necessary changes for the future of the online program

Educational Entrepreneurship Frederick M. Hess, 2006 This lively and provocative book introduces this burgeoning field for readers concerned with K 12 education in the United States and with efforts to reform and improve it Entrepreneurship has emerged in recent years as an unprecedented and influential force in U S K 12 education Yet the topic has received surprisingly little serious or systematic attention Educational Entrepreneurship aims to fill this gap This timely volume addresses a number of central questions What is educational entrepreneurship and what does it look like Who are the educational entrepreneurs and what motivates them What tools do entrepreneurs need to be successful What policies or practices enable or impede entrepreneurship What would it mean to open up the education sector to more entrepreneurial activity An interesting and admirable range of contributors offers clusters of articles on the nature of educational entrepreneurship the political policy and legal contexts that face educational entrepreneurs various models of entrepreneurial activity the role of for profit organizations in K 12 education and possible future directions for educational entrepreneurs
