Bailey,1940 Flight Test Identification and Simulation of a UH-60A Helicopter and Slung Load ,2001 Helicopter slung load operations are common in both military and civil contexts Helicopters and loads are often qualified for these operations by means of flight tests which can be expensive and time consuming There is significant potential to reduce such costs both through revisions in flight test methods and by using validated simulation models To these ends flight tests were conducted at Moffett Field to demonstrate the identification of key dynamic parameters during flight tests aircraft stability margins and handling qualities parameters and load pendulum stability and to accumulate a data base for simulation development and validation The test aircraft was a UH 60A Black Hawk and the primary test load was an instrumented 8 by 6 by 6 ft cargo container Tests were focused on the lateral and longitudinal axes which are the axes most affected by the load pendulum modes in the frequency range of interest for handling qualities tests were conducted at airspeeds from hover to 80 knots Using telemetered data the dynamic parameters were evaluated in near real time after each test airspeed and before clearing the aircraft to the next test point These computations were completed in under 1 min A simulation model was implemented by integrating an advanced model of the UH 60A aerodynamics dynamic equations for the two body slung load system and load static aerodynamics obtained from wind tunnel measurements Comparisons with flight data for the helicopter alone and with a slung load showed good overall agreement for all parameters and test points however unmodeled secondary dynamic losses around 2 Hz were found in the helicopter model and they resulted in conservative stability margin estimates The National Union Catalogs, 1963- ,1964 National Union Catalog ,1968 Includes entries for maps and atlases Rotorwash Analysis Handbook: Development and analysis Samuel W. Ferguson,1994 Flight-Time Identification of a UH-60A Helicopter and Slung Load ,1998 The American Telephone Journal ,1902 Automatic Telephone Systems William Aitken,1924 Large multi-office automatic systems; semi-automatic working; miscellaneous systems; lay-out and wiring; power plant; traffic William Aitken (Electrical engineer),1924 C.P.A. Review Clem Wetzell Collins,1927 Flight Testing and Real-Time System Identification Analysis of a UH-60A Black Hawk Helicopter with an Instrumented External Sling Load Allen H. McCoy,1997-12 Historically helicopter and load combinations have been qualified through flight testing requiring considerable time and cost With advancements in simulation and flight test techniques there is potential to substantially reduce costs and increase the safety of helicopter sling load certification Validated simulation tools make possible accurate prediction of operational flight characteristics before initial flight tests Real time analysis of test data improves the safety and efficiency of the testing programs To advance these concepts the US Army and NASA in cooperation with the Israeli Air Force and Technion under a Memorandum of Agreement seek to develop and validate a numerical model of the UH 60 with sling load and demonstrate a method of near real time flight test analysis This thesis presents results from flight tests of a US Army Black Hawk helicopter with various external loads Tests were conducted as the US first phase of this MOA task The primary load was a container express box CONEX which contained a compact instrumentation package The flights covered the airspeed range from hover to 70 knots Primary maneuvers were pitch and roll frequency sweeps steps and doublets Results of the test determined the effect of the suspended load on both the aircraft s handling qualities and it s control system s stability margins Included were calculations of the stability characteristics of the load s pendular motion Utilizing CIPHER software a method for near real time system identification was also demonstrated during the flight test program
