ENVIRONMENTAL CHEMISTRY

THE ATMOSPHERE

Question 1: What is environmental Chemistry?

Answer: Environmental Chemistry: The branch of chemistry which deals with the environment and the changes occurring in it is called environmental chemistry.

Question 2: Write the composition of atmosphere?

Answer: Composition of atmosphere: The layer of gases surrounding the earth is called atmosphere. The atmosphere is responsible for sustaining the life on the earth because it absorbs the dangerous cosmic and ultra violet radiation coming from the sun. The major components of the atmosphere are N_2 and O_2 . Its minor components are CO_2 , Ar (Argon) and some trace gases. The mass of atmosphere is about 4.5 to 5×10^{15} metric tones. The temperature of the atmosphere ranges from -92 to $1200^\circ C$. The pressure of the atmosphere at sea-level is 1atm but at high altitude above the sea level it decreases to 3×10^{-7} atm. The density of atmosphere is 0.0013 g/cm^3 which gradually decrease with altitude.

Question 3: Write the layers of atmosphere.

Answer: Layers of atmosphere: Layers of atmosphere are the following.

Troposphere	Stratosphere	Mesosphere	Thermosphere
-------------	--------------	------------	--------------

1. Troposphere: Troposphere is the lowest layer of atmosphere which is close to the earth surface. The average height of this layer from the earth surface is about 11 Km. Its height depends upon the latitudes, seasons and pressure. At equator its height from the earth surface is 16 km and at 45° latitude is 9.65 km.

- Lapse Rate: The change in temperature of atmosphere with increase in height is called lapse rate.
- Positive Lapse Rate: If temperature increases with height it is called positive lapse rate.
- Negative Lapse Rate: If temperature decreases with increase in height it is called negative lapse rate.
- Temperature Inversion: The change from positive lapse rate to negative lapse rate at the troposphere is called temperature inversion.

Most of the weather phenomenon takes place in troposphere. The cloud formation also takes place at the top of troposphere. In troposphere the temperature range is from 60 to $-56^\circ C$. Major components of troposphere are N_2 , O_2 , CO_2 and H_2O vapours. It constitutes about 70% of the atmosphere.

2). Stratosphere: It is the second layer of atmosphere which is above the troposphere. The stratosphere extends from 11 km to 50 km. The major component of stratosphere is ozone (O_3). Therefore it is also called ozonosphere. The stratosphere shows positive lapse rate because the temperature increases from $-56^\circ C$ to $-2^\circ C$ with height. The increase in temperature is due to the presence of O_3 which absorb u.v radiation of the sun. The stratosphere absorbs u.v radiation thus protecting living organisms on earth surface from harmful effect of the u.v radiations.

3). Mesosphere: Mesosphere is the third layer of atmosphere which is above stratosphere. Its height is range from 50km to 85km. The major components of this region are O_3^+ and NO^+ . The decrease in temperature from $-2^\circ C$ to $-92^\circ C$, with increase in height is due to low level of u.v absorbing species like O_3 .
