

CHAPTER 13

SHIPBOARD DAMAGE CONTROL TRAINING

Learning Objectives: Recall the organization and responsibilities of the damage control training team (DCTT) and the objectives of DCTT training.

As a general rule, it is accepted that any senior Damage Controlman should have the ability to develop and conduct damage control exercises to provide shipboard personnel training in damage control readiness. This chapter is designed to introduce you to the organization and function of the damage control training team (DCTT) and the importance of ongoing DCTT training. The information provided will enhance your ability to provide classroom lectures and develop in-port and at-sea damage control training scenarios.

TRAINING TEAM RESPONSIBILITIES

Learning Objectives: Recall the need for damage control training programs and the organization and responsibilities of the damage control training team.

The purpose for damage control training is to provide a means to increase individual or team skills in the capability to use and operate both portable and installed equipment. Training should also result in an increased knowledge of specific damage control tactics and procedures that allows personnel to complete required tasks in a more expeditious manner.

The key to a successful training program is to develop a self-sustaining training capability in each ship through the use of onboard training teams. Fleet training resources are used to build this capability by "training the trainers" who, in turn, train the shipboard watch standers and repair parties.

TRAINING TEAM FUNCTIONS

Training teams provide five general functions. They are as follows:

1. TRAINING. Training includes both individual and team training and encompasses prebriefing and debriefing actions as well as providing feedback during actual training scenario.
2. EXERCISE CONTROL. Exercise control includes initiation of the exercise and provides responses to watch stander/team actions.

3. EXERCISE ROLE-PLAY. For example, the training teams perform various positions in a damage control training scenario.
4. DRILLS. The training team develops a drill package and then conducts the drill. The team evaluates the drill results and afterward critiques the results with drill participants.
5. MONITOR SAFETY. Safety is ALWAYS a paramount concern. Training will be immediately stopped if any unsafe condition develops during an exercise or drill.

SHIPBOARD TRAINING TEAMS

Training teams should include a core group of the most knowledgeable and experienced personnel from the ship. These people should bring enthusiasm to the training process. The size of the crew, number of qualified personnel, complexity of the exercise, and safety requirements will influence the size of the team. In addition, some training objectives for a particular event may not require the stationing of a full training team. Ships may find it desirable to have a multi-section training team program in which a training team will be formed from one watch section to train the other and vice versa.

The training teams that should be established are as follows:

1. Integrated training team (ITT).
2. Combat systems training team (CSTT).
3. Engineering casualty control training team (ECTT).
4. Damage control training team (DCTT).
5. Seamanship training team (STT).
6. Aviation training team (ATT). ATT is required for LHA/LHD/LPH/MCS/LPD only.
7. Medical training team (MTT). MTT is required only for ships with medical departments headed by medical officers.

The training teams are responsible, under their team leaders, for identification, formulation, integration, and conduct of all phases of watch stander
