Industrial Control Systems Vipin Chandra Pal, Suman Lata Tripathi, Souvik Ganguli, 2024-02-23 INDUSTRIAL CONTROL SYSTEMS This volume serves as a comprehensive guide in the journey of industrial control systems with a multidisciplinary approach to the key engineering problems in the 21st century The journey of the control system may be viewed from the control of steam engines to spacecraft aeroplane missile control systems to networked control systems and cybersecurity controls In terms of industrial control and application the journey starts from the design of P I D controllers to fuzzy controllers neuro fuzzy controllers backstepping controllers sliding mode controllers and event triggered controls for networked control systems Recently control theory has spread its golden feathers in different fields of engineering by use of the splendid tool of the control system In this era the boom of the Internet of Things is at its maximum pace Different biomedical applications also come under this umbrella and provide the easiest way to continuous monitoring One of the prominent research areas of green energy and sustainable development in which control plays a vital role is load frequency controllers control of solar thermal plants an event driven building energy management system speed sensorless voltage and frequency control in autonomous DFIG based wind energy Hazardous Energy Control Programs and many more This exciting new volume Offers a complete journey through industrial control systems Is written for multidisciplinary students and veteran engineers alike Benefits researchers from diverse disciplines with real world applications The Engineer, 1890

Japanese Technical Periodical Index, 1987 Water Level Detector Using Arduino and Ethernet Shield Muhammad Naqib Zaim Za'ba, 2016 Water Level Controller Harpreet Kaur Channi, Harpreet Kaur Mridul Nayyar, 2019-09-22 In most houses water is first stored in an underground tank UGT and from there it is pumped up to the overhead tank OHT located on the roof People generally switch on the pump when their taps go dry and switch off the pump when the overhead tank starts overflowing This results in the unnecessary wastage and sometimes non availability of water in the case of emergency The simple circuit presented here makes this system automatic i e it switches on the pump when the water level in the overhead tank goes low and switches it off as soon as the water level reaches a pre determined level It also prevents dry run of the pump in case the level in the underground tank goes below the suction level In the figure the common probes connecting the underground tank and the overhead tank to 9V supply are marked C The other probe in underground tank which is slightly above the dry run level is marked S The low level and high level probes in the overhead tank are marked L and H respectively When there is enough water in the underground tank probes C and S are connected through water As a result transistor T1 gets forward biased and starts conducting This in turn switches transistor T2 on Initially when the overhead tank is empty transistors T3 and T5 are in cut off state and hence pnp transistors T4 and T6 get forward biased via resistors R5 and R6 respectively As all series connected transistors T2 T4 and T6 are forward biased they conduct to energise relay RL1 which is also connected in series with transistors T2 T4 and T6 Thus the supply to the pump motor gets completed via the lowerset of relay contacts assuming that switch S2 is on and the pump starts filling the overhead tank. Once the relay has energised, transistor T6 is bypassed via the upper set of contacts of the relay. As soon as the water level touches probe L in the overhead tank, transistor T5 gets forward biased and starts conducting. This in turn reverse biases transistor T6 which then cuts off. But since transistor T6 is bypassed through the relay contacts, the pump continues to run. The level of water continues to rise.
