

CELL BIOLOGY TERM PAPER:

Topic: Choose a topic you thing is really interesting to you professionally and a topic that is specific to a cell, something in a cell or something on a cell. Your term paper should be a significant project, you will spend quite a bit of time working on it, so why not pick something that you are interested in. You may wish to investigate something that could lead to graduate school or information relevant to becoming a great Doctor of Physical Therapy. You may also wish to use this to investigate the cellular mechanisms responsible for something like how the drug glucophage taken by your diabetic uncle changes the insulin sensitivity in your overweight-diabetic uncle, how flavonoids in the diet serve as antioxidant compounds to prevent lipid peroxidation, or how pyrethrins in flea shampoo form irreversible inhibitors of the enzyme acetylcholinesterase in a flea.....BUT not the canine host.

Try and limit your topic as much as possible. Try and get instructor feedback on your topic to help you find a great topic for a great paper. The key to a good term paper is to LIMIT your topic. Making your topic as specific as possible means you are responsible for less and can describe it in greater detail. Try and get a PubMed search down to about 20-100 papers, of these you will be able to sort the good from the bad, narrowing your topic even further.

"Like every well-written story, a scientific manuscript should have a beginning (Introduction), middle (Materials and Methods), and an end (Results). The Discussion (the moral of the story) puts the study in perspective of others. The Conclusion repeats the most important take-home message. The Abstract is a condensed summary of the story. The Title gives the story a name" The references tell the reader how you justified the truth of your story: Liumbungu GM, Velati C, Pasqualetti P, and Massimo Eranchini Fj. How to write a scientific manuscript for publication. Blood Transfus. 2013; 11: 217-226

Paper requirements: (rough and final drafts) must have the following:

Title Page: This page does not count as a page of text and must have all of the information indicated on the sample title page.

Paper Requirements: The term paper should consist of a concise literature review that expands upon the generalizations discussed in the sentences of your abstract. A good paper has clearly labeled sections headings and sub-headings. Length of Paper: The TEXT of this paper must be typed (12 cpi) and single-spaced. The paper (with references section) must include a minimum 1200 words of single spaced "text" - excluding the reference section-save/print a screen shot from the "review" option in microsoft word to validate the word count-put this on last page after references). If you are writing a group paper with more than one author, please add a few more words to the total (1500 words). You are WELCOME to write a collaborative paper (two authors) for the same topic, please see instructor if you choose to do this, collaborative effort is what grad school/med school/PT school is all about.

Please print Front-Back to save a few trees. The type font size must be 12, new times roman (use one inch margin). The font style must be one of the standard fonts and consistently used for all text in the paper. If in doubt, show a sample to the instructor. The paper needs to include at least 10 references from peer-reviewed sources, at least five of which need to have been published more recently than 2008, you are welcome to have many more than 10. If your topic does not have any "new" sources you will need to modify the topic or choose a new one. Books and websites do not count towards the 10 references of course.

The paper (single spaced only) should include each of the following parts that were described in the outline. Abstract 200-300 words. Introduction: About 1/4 page that tells reader what the paper is about and why topic is important/clinically significant. The last sentence of introduction is required to be a purpose statement (The purpose of this paper is, ...) The body of paper-see above- should be broken into discrete headings and sub-headings. The Discussion or Summary section (about a 1/2 page) should repeat the key points of the paper and perhaps discuss where the topic of interest appears to be going in the future. Literature Cited section should list references in

Jenkins, 2015-03-31 The American Association for the Advancement of Science's report on Vision and Change in Undergraduate Biology Education suggests that instructors can no longer rely solely on trying to cover a syllabus packed with topics but rather should introduce fewer concepts but present them in greater depth They further suggest that the principles embodied in a set of core concepts and competencies should be the basis for all undergraduate biology courses including those designed for nonmajors The theme of Tools for Critical Thinking in Biology will be the first and most fundamental of these competencies the ability to apply the process of science Biology courses and curricula must engage students in how scientific inquiry is conducted including evaluating and interpreting scientific explanations of the natural world The book uses diverse examples to illustrate how experiments work how hypotheses can be tested by systematic and comparative observations when experiments aren't possible how models are useful in science and how sound decisions can be based on the weight of evidence even when uncertainty remains These are fundamental issues in the process of science that are important for everyone to understand whether they pursue careers in science or not Where other introductory biology textbooks are organized by scientific concepts Tools for Critical Thinking in Biology will instead show how methods can be used to test hypotheses in fields as different as ecology and medicine using contemporary case studies The book will provide students with a deeper understanding of the strengths and weaknesses of such methods for answering new questions and will thereby change the way they think about the fundamentals of biology Quantum Theory in Biology; a Research Conducted by Herman Schneider ... and George Sperti ... University of Cincinnati. Biology Research Paper Example Introduction

In the digital age, access to information has become easier than ever before. The ability to download Biology Research Paper Example has revolutionized the way we consume written content. Whether you are a student looking for course material, an avid reader searching for your next favorite book, or a professional seeking research papers, the option to download Biology Research Paper Example has opened up a world of possibilities. Downloading Biology Research Paper Example provides numerous advantages over physical copies of books and documents. Firstly, it is incredibly convenient. Gone are the days of carrying around heavy textbooks or bulky folders filled with papers. With the click of a button, you can gain immediate access to valuable resources on any device. This convenience allows for efficient studying, researching, and reading on the go. Moreover, the cost-effective nature of downloading Biology Research Paper Example has democratized knowledge. Traditional books and academic journals can be expensive, making it difficult for individuals with limited financial resources to access information. By offering free PDF downloads, publishers and authors are enabling a wider audience to benefit from their work. This inclusivity promotes equal opportunities for learning and personal growth. There are numerous websites and platforms where individuals can download Biology Research Paper Example. These websites range from academic databases offering research papers and journals to online libraries with an expansive collection of books from various genres. Many authors and publishers also upload their work to specific websites, granting readers access to their content without any charge. These platforms not only provide access to existing literature but also serve as an excellent platform for undiscovered authors to share their work with the world. However, it is essential to be cautious while downloading Biology Research Paper Example. Some websites may offer pirated or illegally obtained copies of copyrighted material. Engaging in such activities not only violates copyright laws but also undermines the efforts of authors, publishers, and researchers. To ensure ethical downloading, it is advisable to utilize reputable websites that prioritize the legal distribution of content. When downloading Biology Research Paper Example, users should also consider the potential security risks associated with online platforms. Malicious actors may exploit vulnerabilities in unprotected websites to distribute malware or steal personal information. To protect themselves, individuals should ensure their devices have reliable antivirus software installed and validate the legitimacy of the websites they are downloading from. In conclusion, the ability to download Biology Research Paper Example has transformed the way we access information. With the convenience, cost-effectiveness, and accessibility it offers, free PDF downloads have become a popular choice for students, researchers, and book lovers worldwide. However, it is crucial to engage in ethical downloading practices and prioritize personal security when utilizing online platforms. By doing so, individuals can make the most of the vast array of free PDF resources available and embark on a journey of continuous learning and intellectual growth.
