Paper 1 - UK Geographical Issues - Fieldwork - Work Booklet

Topic

1. Suggest a range of questions or hypotheses that the students might have proposed for their investigation.

Has the amount of water discharged in the morning increased since the earthquake?

The first part of this response is positive although there is a hint that it would be difficult to measure the water flow and would be a difficult task for the group. The second part of this response is positive about the data and the subsequent data analysis.

Do not leave things unsimplified. Having more data such as 'significant' or 'smaller' - why might this happen?

12. Suggest how the use of different survey data might have helped the students choose their best locations and the flow data in each of their locations to compare the results.

It may also be possible to use the data to see if there is a link between the amount of water discharged in the morning and the amount of water discharged in the afternoon. This would be a good idea to see if there is a link between the amount of water discharged in the morning and the amount of water discharged in the afternoon.

There is a link between the amount of water discharged in the morning and the amount of water discharged in the afternoon. This is a positive result and it is a good idea to see if there is a link between the amount of water discharged in the morning and the amount of water discharged in the afternoon.
