Students' manual. pt. 2. Instructor's manual Edward Bradford Titchener,1905 Experimental Psychology: Quantitative experiments: pt. 1. Students' manual. pt. 2. Instructor's manual Edward Bradford Titchener,1905 The general purpose with which this book has been written is sufficiently indicated by its title I have selected a number of the classical experiments of Experimental Psychology and have tried to present them in such a way that their performance shall have a real disciplinary value for the undergraduate student Within this general purpose my aim has been two fold I have sought to show in the first place that psychology is above the laboratory that we employ our instruments of precision not for their own sake but solely because they help us to a refined and more accurate introspection And secondly just as in my Outline of Psychology and Primer of Psychology I gave the results of experimentation a prominent place in the psychological system so here I have treated the selected experiments not as separate exercises but as points of departure for systematic discussion PsycINFO Database Record c 2005 APA all rights reserved The Phonographic Manual Charles Morrell,1901 Perpetual Trouble Shooter's Manual John Francis Rider,1936 Pentium Processor User's Manual ,1993 Manual of Instructions for Trade Catalog Compilation Oscar Aurelius Morgner,1917 A Manual of Land and Fresh Water Vertebrate Animals of the United States (exclusive of Birds) Henry Sherring Pratt,1923 The naturalist frequently finds that to learn to identify species is a most difficult task and yet nothing is more important to his work He finds that species are not separated merely on shape and colour but on structural peculiarities which frequently are connected with particular habits This is especially the case in vertebrate animals which in Great Britain with its very limited number of forms may be identified in a haphazard manner by elimination This is impossible in a country where different climatic areas interdigitate and where there are many species as the United States which for the purpose of the naturalist is a continent Here Prof H S Pratt fills the bill by his Vertebrate Animals of the United States which however omits birds A short account of each group is given the anatomical features dividing it up into sub groups and families being usually illustrated Where neces sary special features for families are described and then follow keys to the genera descriptions of the same and keys to their species The whole closes with a good bibliography and a glossary of technical terms The short descriptions of each species with mention of their geographical distributions and habitats are excellent and the tabulation of the sub species most useful We learn that there are about 600 species of freshwater fishes 70 of newts and 61 of frogs and toads we are given a key by which their tadpoles and eggs can be identified 300 reptiles and a wide series of mammals belonging to 9 orders We characterise this publication as a book for ready reference such as should be on the shelves of all American naturalists
