Films Based on British Novels Wikipedia contributors, The James Bond Songs Adrian Daub, Charles Kronengold, 2015-08-31 Starting with 1964's Goldfinger every James Bond film has followed the same ritual and so has its audience after an exciting action sequence the screen goes black and the viewer spends three long minutes absorbing abstract opening credits and a song that sounds like it wants to return to 1964 In The James Bond Songs authors Adrian Daub and Charles Kronengold use the genre to trace not only a changing cultural landscape but also evolving conceptions of what a pop song is They argue that the story of the Bond song is the story of the pop song more generally and perhaps even the story of its end Each chapter discusses a particular segment of the Bond canon and contextualizes it in its era's music and culture But the book also asks how Bond and his music reflected and influenced our feelings about such topics as masculinity race money and aging Through these individual pieces the book presents the Bond song as the perfect anthem of late capitalism The Bond songs want to talk about the fulfillment that comes from fast cars shaken Martinis and mindless sex but their unstable speakers subjects and addressees actually undercut the logic of the lifestyle James Bond is sworn to defend The book is an invitation to think critically about pop music about genre and about the political aspects of popular culture in the twentieth century and beyond The British Cinema Book Robert Murphy, 2019-07-25 The new edition of The British Cinema Book has been thoroughly revised and updated to provide a comprehensive introduction to the major periods genres studios film makers and debates in British cinema from the 1890s to the present The book has five sections addressing debates and controversies industry genre and representation British cinema 1895-1939 British cinema from World War II to the 1970s and contemporary British cinema Within these sections leading scholars and critics address a wide range of issues and topics including British cinema as a national cinema its complex relationship with Hollywood film censorship key British genres such as horror comedy and costume film the work of directors including Alfred Hitchcock Anthony Asquith Alexander Mackendrick Michael Powell Lindsay Anderson Ken Russell and Mike Leigh studios such as Gainsborough Ealing Rank and Gaumont and recent signs of hope for the British film industry such as the rebirth of the low budget British horror picture and the emergence of a British Asian cinema Discussions are illustrated with case studies of key films many of which are new
