

QUESTION 1

1.1.1. The first part of the question is about the definition of a function. A function is a mapping from a set to a set. In other words, it is a rule that assigns to each element of the domain exactly one element of the codomain.

1.1.2. The second part of the question is about the domain and codomain of a function. The domain is the set of all possible input values, and the codomain is the set of all possible output values.

1.1.3. The third part of the question is about the range of a function. The range is the set of all output values that the function actually produces.

QUESTION 2

2.1.1. The first part of the question is about the definition of a linear function. A linear function is a function whose graph is a straight line. It can be written in the form $y = mx + c$, where m is the slope and c is the y-intercept.

2.1.2. The second part of the question is about the slope of a line. The slope is a measure of the steepness of the line. It is calculated as the change in y divided by the change in x.

2.1.3. The third part of the question is about the y-intercept of a line. The y-intercept is the point where the line crosses the y-axis. It is the value of y when x is zero.

2.1.4. The fourth part of the question is about the equation of a line. The equation of a line is a mathematical statement that describes the line. It can be written in the form $y = mx + c$.

2.1.5. The fifth part of the question is about the graph of a line. The graph of a line is a visual representation of the line on a coordinate plane. It shows the relationship between x and y.

2.1.6. The sixth part of the question is about the slope of a line. The slope is a measure of the steepness of the line. It is calculated as the change in y divided by the change in x.
