Drama Unit

Glass Menagerie

1. Read The Glass Menagerie by Tennessee Williams.
2. Complete read-along worksheets to document comprehension.
3. Complete at least three comprehension quizzes in which student will write a brief essay demonstrating their understanding of a particular scene/soliloquy. Students will be expected to use the language of literature in their essay.
4. Students write a final essay about the play.

Since English 11 is set up as a survey of American Literature, credit recovery will be set up thematically. Students must complete two of the following units to demonstrate their knowledge.

Unit I. Endless Frontiers

At the end of this unit, you will write an essay of at least 300 words answering the following question on characterization:

In a brief poem or an essay, a writer usually reveals aspects of his own character; in a biography he reveals the character of real persons other than himself; and in narrative poems, short stories, and other works of fiction, he reveals the character of imaginary persons. In short, characterization is one of the most important aspects of most literary works.

Choose two of the selections you have read in which you feel the author was particularly successful in creating character. Be prepared to discuss how the author created his character or characters and why you liked them particularly.
