Creating Regenerative Cities:

Creating Regenerative Cities Herbert Girardet, 2014-09-19 Large modern cities have effectively declared their independence from nature But while they take up only three percent of the world's land surface their ecological footprints actually cover the entire globe Humanity is building an urban future yet urban resource use is threatening the future of humanity and the natural world To meet the aspirations of city people in both developing and developed countries bold new initiatives are needed Modern cities are an astonishing human achievement As centres of innovation they are humanity's cultural playgrounds Their communication and transport systems have developed a global reach They are attractive to investors because they can offer a vast variety of services at comparatively low per capita costs But are they viable as ecological systems The planning of new cities as well as the retrofit of existing cities needs to undergo a profound paradigm shift Mere sustainable development is not enough To be compatible with natural systems cities need to move away from linear systems of resource use and learn to operate as closed loop circular systems To ensure their long term future they need to develop an environmentally enhancing restorative relationship between themselves and the natural systems on which they still depend Creating Regenerative Cities is a concise solution oriented manual for creating regenerative urbanisation A wide range of technical management and policy solutions already exist but implementation has been too slow and too little in large part because the kinds of holistic approaches needed are still unfamiliar to fragmented and process driven urban policy making and governance Herbert Girardet's 30 years experience as an ecologist thinker film maker and consultant working around the world has created this unique combination of tried and tested best practices and policies which outlines the fundamental shifts needed in the way we think about our cities Architecture and Urbanism: A Smart Outlook Shaimaa Kamel, Hanan Sabry, Ghada F. chaos In Extreme Cities Ashley Dawson argues that cities are ground zero for climate change contributing the lion's share of carbon to the atmosphere while also lying on the frontlines of rising sea levels Today the majority of the world's megacities are located in coastal zones yet few of them are adequately prepared for the floods that will increasingly menace their shores Instead most continue to develop luxury waterfront condos for the elite and industrial facilities for corporations These not only intensify carbon emissions but also place coastal residents at greater risk when water levels rise In Extreme Cities Dawson offers an alarming portrait of the future of our cities describing the efforts of Staten Island New York and Shishmareff Alaska residents to relocate Holland's models for defending against the seas and the development of New York City before and after Hurricane Sandy Our best hope lies not with fortified sea walls he argues Rather it lies with urban movements already fighting to remake our cities in a more just and equitable way As much a harrowing study as a call to arms Extreme Cities is a necessary read for anyone concerned with the threat of global warming and of the cities of the world
