Haunting in Chinese-Australian Writing Xiao Xiong, 2023-06-26 This book examines haunting in terms of trauma languaging and the supernatural in works by Chinese Australian writers born in Australia Mainland China Hong Kong Malaysia and Singapore It goes beyond the conventional focus on identity issues in the analysis of diasporic writing considering how the memory of past trauma is triggered by abusive systems of power in the present The author unpacks how trauma also brings past violence to haunt the present This book considers how different

Chinese diasporic communities present a dynamic and multiple state through partial erasure between different Chinese subcultures and other cultures Showing the supernatural as a social and cultural product this book elucidates how haunting as the supernatural refers to the coexistence of and the competition between different cultures and powers It takes a wide ranging view of different diasporic communities under the banner Chinese a term that refers not only to Chinese nationals in terms of citizenship but also to the Chinese diaspora in terms of ancestry and Chinese culture more generally In analysing haunting in texts the author positions Chinese culture as in a constant state of flux It is relevant to literary scholars and students with interests in Australian literature Chinese and Southeast Asian migration writing and those with an interest in the Gothic and postcolonial traditions

Literacies, Literature and Learning Karin Murris, Joanna Haynes, 2018-06-13
Literacies Literature and Learning Reading Classrooms Differently attends to pressing questions in literacy education such as the poor quality of many children's experiences as readers routine disregard for their thinking and the degrading impact of narrow skills measurement and comparison This cutting edge book moves beyond social psychological and scientific categories that focus on individualistic and linear notions of the knowing subject of progress and development and of child as less than fully human It adopts a posthumanist framework to explore new perspectives for teaching learning and research Authors from diverse disciplines and continents have collaborated to interrogate the colonising characteristics of humanism and to imagine a different more just reading of a literacy classroom Questions of de colonisation are tackled through the exploration of both education and research practices that seek to de centre the human and include the more than human Inspired by an example of high quality children's literature playful philosophical teaching and the power of the material the authors show how the chapters diffract with one another thereby opening up radical possibilities for a different doing of childhood The book hopes to help transform adult child relationships in schools and universities As such it should be of great interest to academics researchers and postgraduate students in the areas of literacy philosophy law education the wider social sciences the arts health sciences and architecture It should also be essential reading for teacher educators and practitioners around the world

A History of European Literature Walter Cohen, 2017-01-19 Walter Cohen argues that the history of European literature and each of its standard periods can be illuminated by comparative consideration of the different literary languages within Europe and by the ties of European literature to world literature World literature is marked by recurrent systematic features outcomes of the way that language and literature are at once the products of major change and its agents Cohen tracks these features from ancient times to the present distinguishing five main overlapping stages Within that framework he shows that European literatures ongoing internal and external relationships are most visible at the level of form rather than of thematic statement or mimetic representation European literature emerges from world literature before the birth of Europe during antiquity whose Classical languages are the heirs to the complex heritage of Afro Eurasia This legacy is later transmitted by Latin to the various vernaculars The uniqueness of the process lies in the gradual displacement of the learned language by the vernacular long dominated by Romance literatures That development subsequently informs the second crucial differentiating dimension of European literature the multicontinental expansion of its languages and characteristic genres especially the novel beginning in the Renaissance This expansion ultimately results in the reintegration of European literature into world literature and thus in the creation of today's global literary system The distinctiveness of European literature is to be found in these interrelated trajectories
