Barometer Rising New Canadian Library:

New Canadian Library Janet Friskney, 2015-05-07 In the mid 1950s much Canadian literature was out of print making it relatively inaccessible to readers including those studying the subject in schools and universities When English professor Malcolm Ross approached Toronto publisher Jack McClelland in 1952 to propose a Canadian literary reprint series it was still the accepted wisdom among publishers that Canadian literature was of insufficient interest to the educational market to merit any great publishing risks Eventually convinced by Ross that a latent market for Canadian literary reprints did indeed exist McClelland Stewart launched the New Canadian Library NCL series in 1958 with Ross as its general editor In 2008 the NCL will celebrate a half century of publication In New Canadian Library Janet B Friskney takes the reader through the early history of the NCL series focusing on the period up to 1978 when Malcolm Ross retired as general editor A wealth of archival resources published reviews and the NCL volumes themselves are used to survey the working relationship between Ross and McClelland as well as the collaborative participation of those who through the middle decades of the twentieth century were committed to studying and nurturing Canada's literary heritage To place the New Canadian Library in its proper historical context Friskney examines the simultaneous development of Canadian literary studies as a legitimate area of research and teaching in academe and acknowledges the NCL as a milestone in Canadian publishing history Barometer Rising Hugh MacLennan, 1965 Modern Realism in English-Canadian Fiction Colin Hill, 2012-05-07 Much of the scholarship on twentieth century Canadian literature has argued that English Canadian fiction was plagued by backwardness and an inability to engage fully with the movement of modernism that was so prevalent in British and American fiction and poetry Modern Realism in English Canadian Fiction re evaluates Canadian literary culture to posit that it has been misunderstood because it is a distinct genre a regional form of the larger international modernist movement Examining literary magazines manifestos archival documents and major writers such as Frederick Philip Grove Morley Callaghan and Raymond Knister Colin Hill identifies a modern realism that crosses regions as well as urban and rural divides A bold reading of the modern realist aesthetic and an articulate challenge to several enduring and limiting myths about Canadian writing Modern Realism in English Canadian Fiction will stimulate important debate in literary circles everywhere Canadiana, 1989 Canadian Books in Print, 1973 A Reader's Guide to the Canadian Novel John Moss, 1987 Canadian Books in Print. Tierney,1994 Since the publication of Two Solitudes in 1945 Hugh MacLennan has been generally accepted as one of Canada's premier novelists However recent studies suggest the need for a reappraisal of MacLennan's status This need is confirmed by a close examination of his writing in recent years which has raised questions about the depth of the quality of his works his scope and inclusiveness his modernism as well as other issues In this volume leading scholars offer fresh perceptions of MacLennan's personality character and artistry Among other issues they examine the quality of his writing the influences on his work and its importance for Canadian literature Moreover conclusions are offered about his international national regional and civic intent his love hate relationship with the nationalist literary agenda his attitude toward women his own feminine side the authenticity of the father son conflict central to his fiction his attitude toward his own and other writers works the role of critics the future of literature An annotated bibliographic update is also included Barometer Rising Hugh MacLennan,1995 December 6 2017 was the 100th anniversary of the Halifax Explosion As it unfolds against the compelling background of wartime Halifax Barometer Rising exhibits all of what Queen's professor D O Spettigue describes as MacLennan's imaginative power and literary craftsmanship The tight melodramatic plot fuses together a tender love story a bitter father son conflict and a desperate search centering on the famous harbour explosion The novel stands in the front ranks of Canadian literature Hugh MacLennan George Woodcock,1969
