

6 The Muscular System

WHAT

Muscles are responsible for body movements, stabilizing joints, and generating heat.

HOW

Muscles generate the force required to cause movement by contracting, a process in which proteins inside the muscle fibers overlap more than when they are at rest.

WHY

In addition to whole body movements, muscles are needed to move substances inside our bodies: for example, air into and out of our lungs, food through our digestive tracts, and blood through our heart and blood vessels.

Instructors may assign a related “Building Vocabulary” activity using Mastering A&P

Because contracting muscles look like mice scurrying beneath the skin, a scientist long ago dubbed them muscles, from the Latin word mus, meaning “little mouse.” Indeed, the rippling muscles of professional athletes often come to mind when we hear the word muscle. But muscle is also the dominant tissue in the heart and in the walls of other hollow organs of the body such as the intestines and blood vessels, and it makes up nearly half the body’s mass.

The essential function of muscle is to contract, or shorten—a unique characteristic that sets it apart from other body tissues. As a result of this ability, muscles are responsible for all body movements and can be viewed as the “machines” of the body.

6.1 Overview of Muscle Tissues

Learning Objectives

- ✓ Describe similarities and differences in the structure and function of the three types of muscle tissue, and indicate where they are found in the body.
- ✓ Define muscular system.
- ✓ Define and explain the role of the following: endomysium, perimysium, epimysium, tendon, and aponeurosis.

6.1a Muscle Types

There are three types of muscle tissue—skeletal, smooth, and cardiac (Table 6.1, p. 200). These differ
