

Chapter 5

Army Force Development

"We must immediately begin the process of re-examining and challenging our most basic institutional assumptions, organizational structures, paradigms, policies, and procedures to better serve our Nation. The end result of this examination will be a more relevant and ready force – a campaign-quality Army with Joint and Expeditionary Mindset. Our Army will retain the best of its current capabilities and attributes while developing others that increase relevance and readiness to respond to the current and projected strategic and operational environments."

The Way Ahead, General Peter J. Schoomaker, Chief of Staff, Army

Section I Introduction

5-1. Force development

a. Force development starts with the operational capabilities desired of the Army as specified in national strategies and guidance such as the Defense Strategy, Strategic Planning Guidance (SPG), Joint Programming Guidance (JPG), the National Military Strategy (NMS), and the Army Vision as well as the needs of the Combatant Command (COCOM) commanders. It then determines Army doctrinal, organizational, training, materiel, leadership and education, personnel, and facility capabilities-based requirements, translates them into programs and structure, within allocated resources, to accomplish Army missions and functions. Force development brings together people and equipment, forms them into operational organizations with the desired capabilities for the COCOM commander. Force development uses a phased process to develop operational and organizational concepts, and then combines them with technologies, materiel, manpower, and limited resources to produce combat capability. The force development process interfaces and interacts with the JSPS, the materiel systems acquisition management process, the Joint Operations Planning and Execution System (JOPES) (see para 6-3) and the DOD Planning, Programming, Budgeting and Execution (PPBE) process.

b. The U.S. Army Vision calls for a capabilities-based Army that performs its mission within a framework of operating concepts and doctrine. Concepts generate questions and hypotheses about the future, while doctrine provides answers about today and serves as a basis for evaluating future capabilities. A capability provides the means to accomplish a mission or task decisively. Capability comes from organizations comprised of well-trained people with superior equipment, led by competent leaders, employing sound doctrine.

5-2. Force development process

a. This chapter explains the Army force development process (Figure 5-1). Force development initiates the organizational life cycle of the Army, and is the underlying basis for all other functions. It is a process that defines military capabilities, designs force structures to provide these capabilities, and translates organizational concepts based on doctrine, technologies, materiel, manpower requirements, and limited resources into a trained and ready Army. The five-phased process includes:

- (1) Develop capabilities.
- (2) Design organizations.
- (3) Develop organizational models.
- (4) Determine organizational authorizations.
- (5) Document organizational authorizations.

b. The Army force management chart (Figure 2-2 in Chapter 2) displays a schematic framework of the force development sub-processes as part of the force management process. It is useful to use the Army force management chart to visualize how each process or system relates to others and contributes to the accomplishment of the overall process. The following sections will explain the phases of force development in detail.
