

2.3a Analyzing Findings

- Learning Objectives
- Explain what correlation coefficient tells us about the relationship between variables
- Recognize that correlation does not mean a causation
- Discuss our tendency to look for relationships between variables that do not really exist
- Explain random sampling and assignment of people in experimental and control groups
- Discuss how experimenter or participant bias could affect the results of an experiment
- Identify independent and dependent variables

1.A _____ is a number from -1 to +1 that shows the strength and direction of a relationship between two variables.

2.A _____ means that as one variable increases, the other also increases. An example would be the relationship between a person's height and weight.

3.A _____ describes a situation where one variable increases as the other decreases, such as when hours of sleep go down and feelings of tiredness go up.

Draw Positive Correlation

Draw Negative Correlation

Draw No Correlation

1. Just because two variables are correlated does not mean one causes the other; correlation does not imply _____.

2. A _____ is an outside factor that might influence both variables being studied, making it hard to determine the true relationship between them.

Illusory Correlation is = false correlation between two things

- Example: _____
