INTRODUCTION

Science is not only stressed on the mastery of knowledge, i.e., factual, concept, or principles solely, but also is a process of scientific discovery, science learning is related of how to find out about nature systematically (Kurikulum, 2006). According to (Trianto, 2011) science is built for the scientific product, scientific process, and scientific attitude. Due to achieve science learning purpose is needed various learning material and supporting facility, one of it is the used of Students Worksheet. Students Worksheets is a printed learning material that prepared and used by the teachers to assist students in achieving knowledge, skills, and values. Science learning can involve students and learning process can be active and efficient (Lee, 2014; Sasmaz-Oren, 2012).

Some research gained that in several countries Students Worksheet becomes the booster of the curriculum (Martin, 2012). However, integrated science that discussed in this research is the integration of material by science terminology which exists on Al-Qur'an. The needed for the facility of learning methods also proper learning tools is necessary to deliver integrated science (Rahayu.P, 2012). According (Rimma A. Kutbiddinova, 2016) with methods will connect the interaction between teachers and students, e.g., in cooperative learning methods will occur discussion group, debate, simulation game, business, situation analysis case, project methods, social-psychologist training, moderation and computer simulation.
