Library of Congress. Copyright Office,1957      Color from a Light Within Donald Braider,1967 The fictionalized biography of Domenikos Theotokopoulos known to the world as El Greco is written with some expertise by an author who obviously knows his art He has also given a great deal of time relating the painter to his period and surroundings Crete as a boy Venice as a student Rome Spain and he discusses the political social economic and religious influences Particularly the religious as Domenikos had to adapt Dubbed a heretic by his static Orthodox church because of his style and viewpoint the found himself in the Latin Church which permitted expressive freedom about sacred subjects El Greco himself gets somewhat lost in the massive detail and the highly romanticized dialogues between him and his mistresses wives but this emerges as an efficient portrait of art in the times for a special audience Kirkus      Breaking the Chains Robert Willis,2005-07 Raised in a Catholic family in the Pacific Northwest author Robert Willis learned to obey two judges his father a county superior court judge and God He joined the Jesuits hoping to please both The 1960s revolution tested his unthinking obedience to authorities paternal religious and political as the immorality of the Vietnam War troubled his conscience and the Second Vatican Council challenged his position in the modern world When his efforts to stop the war led him to Vietnam he knew he had to break the chains that bound him to the past Willis s path took him to the nascent human potential movement in California Experiencing its healing power he joined Carl Rogers and colleagues at the Center for Studies of the Person in La Jolla while simultaneously pursuing a doctorate in psychology at San Diego s United States International University In his teaching and practice of psychotherapy Willis emphasized the crucial importance of the healing relationship In its depths he felt the presence of the Spirit of God In his personal life together with a woman who touches his soul he meets the God of love The

The Ecclesiastical Review, 1914      Pastoral Theology Archim. Konstantin Zaitsev, et al, Wealth without work

Pleasure without conscience Science without humanity Knowledge without character Politics without principle Commerce without morality Worship without sacrifice <https://vidjambov.blogspot.com/2023/01/bookinventoryvladimirdjambovtalmach.html> Pastoral theology has no special content that would not be included in other subjects that make up the program of theological education The subject of his attention is the shepherd Two main questions arise as far as preparation for the pastoral office is concerned First what should a shepherd be like Second this is what he should know to worthily bear his dignity Of course it is impossible to strictly separate these two topics but they quite clearly define the twofold approach of the teacher of pastoral theology to the whole variety of material to be used by him On the one hand everything useful is selected that can serve the task of forming an ideal shepherd On the other hand everything that the shepherd needs to know for his practical activity is extracted So naturally the course is divided into two parts We have been given two years to complete it So we will dedicate the first to getting a clear idea of what a shepherd should be leaving for the second year a more detailed explanation of everything that he needs to know so that responding to his high appointment worthily fulfill all his diverse duties Turning to the subject that will occupy us during the first year let us beware of straying into abstract doctrinairism which easily turns into reasoning Let us seek the most unpretentious simplicity The devout simplicity of churchly sustained thought of God is the true attitude of a true pastor It is perfectly conveyed by the words of the priestly prayer before reading the Gospel at the liturgy Let us correct all carnal lusts let us go through spiritual life all to pleasing and wise and active The shepherd should be afraid of being carried away by impressions experiences emotions by which they determine his pastoral appearance So he can turn into a dilettante of his business Even worse if he himself tries on the shaky basis of such experiences to create a school for himself turning from an amateur into an artist of his business This is the broad way that can bring human glory but not merit before God The true shepherd on the contrary subjects the spiritual atmosphere surrounding him to vigilant sober control all the sources of its nourishment all its manifestations in this very plan creating a school for himself and very cautiously cautiously treating every manifestation in his holy work improvisation The Apostle Paul teaches in the Epistle to Timothy It is worthy that elders who lead should be given double honor 1 Tim 5 17 Blessings are taken from bishops and priests Priests have the right to bless deacons and laity while bishops have the right to bless priests Priests are called fathers because they show God's Fatherhood to the world they are conductors of love for the world of the Heavenly Father Who sent His Son and the Holy Spirit to earth to save people Respecting the priests people respect first of all the grace of God and themselves resorting to this source of grace The unforgivable mistake of a shepherd is to attribute this respect of people to himself and nourish his self esteem with this respect Just as the Lord performs the Sacraments through a priest so He also receives through Him the honor bestowed upon the holy dignity The task of the priest is to pass it on to the Lord and not to appropriate it for himself and thereby not bring condemnation upon himself Any disrespect must be attributed to oneself as a reminder of one's unworthiness and any respect to the Lord as a reminder that He also acts through unworthy priests     Ave Maria ,1880     ... Select Notes on the International Sunday School Lessons ...
