Comparing the United States and South Africa this book analyzes each country's developmental thinking on education from human capital and human rights approaches in both primary and higher education. The enclosed contributions draw from different disciplines including legal studies, sociology, psychology, computer science, and public policy. Debates of the National Assembly (Hansard) South Africa. Parliament (1994-). National Assembly, 1999 Social Work in Social Change Nicci Earle, 2008. This study forms part of a series of studies on professions and professional education being conducted by the HSRC's research programme on Education Science Skills Development. It follows a pilot study on medical doctors published in 2006 entitled Doctors in a Divided Society. The profession and education of medical practitioners in South Africa. Like the other studies in the series, this study involved developing an understanding of the professional milieu and professional labour market of social workers. As the implementers of government social policy, social work professionals have been at the forefront of grappling with the practicalities of the changes in focus, approach, and methods of social security and social service delivery since 1994. It examines developments in the education and training of social workers within the democratic dispensation, the most significant of which is the development of a national standardised Bachelor of Social Work degree. The study also reveals that the dominant profile in student enrolment and graduation statistics has changed from white female to African female, and that enrolment has increased significantly. However, the study also shows that graduation trends have been negative and losses due to emigration are an additional concern. Given the scarcity of these professionals against the demand for their services, understanding the factors that contribute to this picture are critical to effective intervention. Remote Possibilities Amy Jane Conger, 2005 The Law of South Africa, 2003 Juta's Statutes of South Africa South Africa, 1999 Drum, 2007 Everyone's Guide to South African Law Adriaan M. Anderson, 2006 Engineers in a Developing Country Rènnette Du Toit, Joan Roodt, 2009. The study provides a demographic analysis of employment trends across the public and private sectors of the economy and investigates the demand for engineers, technologists, and technicians in the workforce. A comprehensive analysis of the educational context for engineering professionals focuses on enrolment, graduation, and throughput trends in all engineering disciplines at universities and universities of technology and reveals that although there have been positive innovations in education and training strategies in recent years, many issues, especially at secondary school level, remain a challenge. Women in engineering is a particular focus of this study, which devotes a chapter to examining the factors that influence their choice of career, the barriers they experience in the labour market, and strategies for encouraging women into the profession. This comprehensive monograph offers valuable quantitative and qualitative information about engineering capacity across all engineering disciplines in South Africa. It is therefore an important reference for all engineering academics as well as decision makers in both the private and public sectors and will be useful to aspiring and current engineering students, whatever their field. Interpellations, Questions and Replies of the National Assembly South Africa.
