Digital Archaeology Bridging Method And Theory:

Digital Archaeology Patrick Daly, Thomas L. Evans, 2004-08-02 The use of computers in archaeology is entering a new phase of unparalleled development moving on from a specialist methodology on the margins to a powerful practical and analytical tool used across all areas of archaeological interest With a thorough examination of the ways in which both everyday and cutting edge technologies can be used to inform and enhance traditional methods this book brings together ideology from the academic world and pragmatic concrete examples to show how fieldwork theory and technology fit together today as never before Covering a history of the rise of computer use in archaeology as well as a thorough assessment of a number of high profile examples such as the Ferrybridge Chariot this book shows how new technologies have been implemented into both theory and method as an integral part of the archaeological process With contributions from renowned experts experienced professionals and emerging names in the field this unique forward thinking book brings together previously disparate aspects of archaeology in a new holistic approach to the study of the past A companion website is also available to allow further study of the images included The Archaeologist's Laboratory Edward B.

Banning, 2020-07-27 This second edition of the classic textbook The Archaeologist's Laboratory is a substantially revised work that offers updated information on the archaeological work that follows fieldwork such as the processing and analysis of artifacts and other evidence An overarching theme of this edition is the quality and validity of archaeological arguments and the data we use to support them The book introduces many of the laboratory activities that archaeologists carry out and the ways we can present research results including graphs and artifact illustrations Part I introduces general topics concerning measurement error data quality research design typology probability and databases It also includes data presentation basic artifact conservation and laboratory safety Part II offers brief surveys of the analysis of lithics and ground stone pottery metal artifacts bone and shell artifacts animal and plant remains and sediments as well as dating by stratigraphy seriation and chronometric methods It concludes with a chapter on archaeological illustration and publication A new feature of the book is illustration of concepts through case studies from around the world and from the Palaeolithic to historical archaeology The text is appropriate for senior undergraduate students and will also serve as a useful reference for graduate students and professional archaeologists

Extending the Boundaries of Design Science Theory and Practice Bengisu Tulu, Soussan Djamashbi, Gondy Leroy, 2019-05-14 This book constitutes the thoroughly refereed proceedings of the 14th International Conference on Designing for a Digital and Globalized World DESRIST 2019 held Worcester MA USA June 2019 The 20 revised full papers included in the volume were carefully reviewed and selected from 54 submissions They are organized in the following topical sections Design Science Research Theory and Methodology Design Science Research Applications in Healthcare Design Science Research Applications in Data Science and Design Science Research Applications in Emerging Topics Archaeological Theory Today Ian Hodder, 2012-03-19 This title brings together some of the major exponents and innovators in the discipline to introduce their individual areas of specialism It summarizes the latest developments in the field and looks to the future of the discipline The Ethics of Cultural Heritage Tracy Ireland, John Schofield, 2014-11-01 It is widely acknowledged that all archaeological research is embedded within cultural political and economic contexts and that all archaeological research falls under the heading heritage Most archaeologists now work in museums and other cultural institutions government agencies non government organisations and private sector companies and this diversity ensures that debates continue to proliferate about what constitutes appropriate professional ethics within these related and relevant contexts Discussions about the ethics of cultural heritage in the 20th century focused on standards of professionalism stewardship responsibilities to stakeholders and on establishing public trust in the authenticity of the outcomes of the heritage process This volume builds on recent approaches that move away from treating ethics as responsibilities to external domains and to the discipline and which seek to ensure ethics are integral to all heritage theory practice and methods The chapters in this collection chart a departure from the tradition of external heritage ethics towards a broader approach underpinned by the turn to human rights issues of social justice and the political economy of heritage conceptualising ethical responsibilities not as pertaining to the past but to a future focused domain of social action

Human Remains: Another Dimension Tim Thompson, David Errickson, 2017-02-16 Human Remains Another Dimension The Application of 3D Imaging in the Funerary Context brings together scattered literature on the topic assimilating disparate pieces that relate to the novel use of non invasive three dimensional imaging techniques in the forensic context All chapters are written by specialists in the field who use these types of imaging techniques within their research bringing an engaging and comprehensive view that demonstrates the current use of 3D non invasive imaging techniques using case studies In addition the advantages for using such methods their current limitations and possible solutions are also reviewed Includes three dimensional imaging techniques presented from a forensics point of view Written by well renowned specialists in the field Assimilates disparate pieces that relate to the novel use of non invasive three dimensional imaging techniques

Gender Trouble and Current Archaeological Debates Uroš Matić, Bisserka Gaydarska, Laura Coltofean, Marta Díaz-Guardamino, 2024-10-28 This volume challenges the status quo by addressing a selection of intensely discussed themes in contemporary archaeological practice from a gender perspective It aims to demonstrate that gender is intrinsic to archaeology and that gender archaeology can enrich our studies irrespective of the discipline s possible future directions and so called paradigm shifts The scholarly contributions commissioned for this volume critically discuss and reflect on a wide range of concepts ideas principles and theories presently applied in archaeology within the framework of gender The chapters included in the first part deal with themes in world archaeology that have little or no focus on gender such as the Third Science Revolution e g ancient DNA stable isotopes analyses big data posthumanism e g new materialism symmetrical archaeology and the ontological turn and digital archaeology and heritage The second part focuses on themes in which gender archaeology has made serious advances intersectionality social inequality violence mobility The third part deals with themes crucial for contemporary archaeology and society namely gender education gender representation in museum exhibitions and the future of gender archaeology The volume concludes with a coda chapter that critically assesses the preceding contributions and the volume as a whole The book offers a gender balanced and inclusive authorship consisting of both well established and early career researchers closely connected to the EAA whose professionally culturally and geographically diverse backgrounds and experiences enrich the viewpoints discussed in the chapters The targeted audience is archaeologists from all theoretical and scientific backgrounds at all stages of their career Chapter 2 Sex Gender and the Third Science Revolution is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International License via link springer.com

Archaeology H. van Londen, Marjolijn S. M. Kok, Arkadiusz Marciniak, 2009 This book is a contribution to a growing body of e learning applications in archaeology and archaeological heritage Its main aim is to discuss various facets of the Leonardo da Vinci project E learning as a tool of knowledge transfer in the field of protection and management of archaeological heritage completed in the years 2007-2009 by six European partners in the context of other undertakings in distance learning solutions in archaeology over the last few years The project's explicit objective was to exchange the best practices and innovative solutions in the field of the archaeological heritage of northern Europe In particular its major purpose was to design develop test assess and implement web based training solutions in developing and upgrading vocational skills in this sector by preparing and conducting a multimedia e learning course composed of fifteen interrelated modules Furthermore the project developed and implemented new methodology including the transfer of knowledge from the conventional to the e learning format and the elaborated training methodology The book is composed of an introduction and eleven chapters Seven of them refer directly to various facets of the project such as its design methodology implementation and evaluation The remaining four contributions discuss current initiatives in implementing different distance and e learning solutions in archaeology The introductory chapter written by Mark Pluciennik debates extensively the benefits and failures of distance learning and e learning as well as pressures for convergence between them as well as between e learning and traditional learning For the author e learning is a complement mode of content delivery which in places proves to be the most efficient one However it is clear that not all learning can be done through digital presentation video or the manipulation of processed data This is especially so in the discipline such as archaeology where one has to learn a range of practical and embodied skills If we choose to implement e learning solutions however it is necessary to provide a serious structural resource and staff support being a prerequisite for supplying and maintaining high quality and up to date education The following seven papers cover various aspect of the project itself They discuss the training content as well as methodology of the course production and training In particular they refer to the models and methods of distance training and their applicability for the sector of archaeological heritage and tools used in the distance learning process use of multimedia learning management systems supporting conducting distance learning in particular the LMS LCMS system's functionality as well as details of the course's preparation and implementation and the training process An important part of the book is aimed at evaluating the course content and training process It is based upon careful and systematic questionnaires that were collected among trainees in all participating countries after the completion of the course This section contains also personal accounts of both trainers and trainees The last two papers present two ongoing e learning programme in archaeology implemented These comprise project Arkeonet conducted by the Aranzadi Science Society Spain and a Leonardo da Vinci project Archaeology and Construction Engineering Skills ACES

Beyond Illustration Bernard Frischer, Anastasia Dakouri-Hild, 2008 This volume contains thirteen papers which demonstrate the usefulness of 2D and 3D digital modelling in archaeology which as the title states goes well beyond simply producing illustrative site maps but can be used as a creative form of experimental archaeology

Reimagining Regional Analyses Tina L. Thurston, Roderick B. Salisbury, 2009 Reimagining Regional Analysis explores the interplay between different methodological and theoretical approaches to regional analysis in archaeology The past decades have seen significant advances in methods and instrumental techniques including geographic information systems the new availability of aerial and satellite images and greater emphasis on non traditional data such as pollen soil chemistry and botanical remains At the same time there are new insights into human impacts on ancient environments and increased recognition of the importance of micro scale changes in human society These factors combine to compel a reimagining of regional archaeology The authors in this volume focus on understanding individual trajectories and the historically contingent relationships between the social the economic the political and the sacred as reflected regionally Among topics considered are the social construction of landscape use of spatial patterning to interpret social variability paleoenvironmental reconstruction and human impacts and social memory and social practice This book opens a discourse around the spatial patterning of the contingent recursive relationships between people their social activities and the environment

Archaeological Review from Cambridge ,2008 Jebel Bishri in Focus Sanna Aro-Valjus,Markus Törmä,2011 This book presents the work of the Finnish project SYGIS on Jebel Bishri a mountainous region in Central Syria The main focus of this archaeological project was to unambiguously locate discovered sites on the Earth s surface in order to provide a starting point for the recording and creation of data to help with the cultural heritage management of Syria as well as to help prevent looting and to aid in the preservation of cultural remains in this vulnerable area The sites encountered during this project covered a time span of nearly 0 5 million years and in a series of chronological chapters the development of human cultures in the Jebel Bishri region over the course of time is explored The interaction of people between different environmental zones and the cultural longue dur e emerge as themes of particular importance Landscape Archaeology and GIS Henry Chapman,2006 This volume examines the ways in which geographical information systems are used to explore archaeological landscapes It is structured around principal themes in landscape archaeology from desk based assessment data collection data modelling and landscape analysis through to archiving and publication Public Archaeology Howard Williams,Caroline Pudney,Afnan Ezzeldin,2019 This collection stemming from the 2nd University of Chester Archaeology Student Conference Archaeo Engage Engaging Communities in Archaeology April 2017 provides original perspectives on public archaeology s current practices and future potentials focusing on art archaeological media strategies and subjects
