Chapter 1section The Cold War Comes Home:

The Cold War at Home Philip Jenkins,2014-06-30 One of the most significant industrial states in the country with a powerful radical tradition Pennsylvania was by the early 1950s the scene of some of the fiercest anti Communist activism in the United States Philip Jenkins examines the political and social impact of the Cold War across the state tracing the Red Scare s reverberations in party politics the labor movement ethnic organizations schools and universities and religious organizations Among Jenkins s most provocative findings is the revelation that although their absolute numbers were not large Communists were very well positioned in crucial Pennsylvania regions and constituencies particularly in labor unions the educational system and major ethnic organizations Instead of focusing on Pennsylvania s right wing politicians the sort represented nationally by Senator Joseph McCarthy Jenkins emphasizes the anti Communist activities of liberal politicians labor leaders and ethnic community figures who were terrified of Communist encroachments on their respective power bases He also stresses the deep roots of the state s militant anti Communism which can be traced back at least into the 1930s

Ending the Cold War at Home Sam Marullo,1993 After unveiling the individual and organizational values which support the Cold War s defense industry government agencies media language and ideology Marullo proposes reforms to end our domestic Cold War

The Cold War at Home and Abroad Andrew L. Johns,Mitchell B. Lerner,2018-08-10 From President Truman s use of a domestic propaganda agency to Ronald Reagan s handling of the Soviet Union during his 1984 reelection campaign the American political system has consistently exerted a profound effect on the country s foreign policies Americans may cling to the belief that politics stops at the water s edge but the reality is that parochial political interests often play a critical role in shaping the nation s interactions with the outside world In The Cold War at Home and Abroad Domestic Politics and US Foreign Policy since 1945 editors Andrew L Johns and Mitchell B Lerner bring together eleven essays that reflect the growing methodological diversity that has transformed the field of diplomatic history over the past twenty years The contributors examine a spectrum of diverse domestic factors ranging from traditional issues like elections and Congressional influence to less frequently studied factors like the role of religion and regionalism and trace their influence on the history of US foreign relations since 1945 In doing so they highlight influences and ideas that expand our understanding of the history of American foreign relations and provide guidance and direction for both contemporary observers and those who shape the United States role in the world This expansive volume contains many lessons for politicians policy makers and engaged citizens as they struggle to implement a cohesive international strategy in the face of hyper partisanship at home and uncertainty abroad
