Criminal Investigation Steven Gerard Brandl, 2004 Several recent studies show that police chiefs think that new recruits who come out of college programs do not have the critical thinking skills that they reasonably should have as a result of their college experience College students should be able to think and think critically about important issues and problems in criminal justice and in particular criminal investigation Police work and criminal investigations are more complicated now than ever The work requires that individuals have a solid understanding of what it is that they are expected to do and the problems and pitfalls with this work In particular individuals who enter police work should have a critical understanding of evidence the strengths and weaknesses of different forms of evidence and how different types of evidence can be used to establish proof This knowledge represents a necessary foundation for the study of criminal evidence and investigation and they can get this knowledge from my book Steven G Brandl

Teachers and Code-breakers Thomas O'Loughlin, 1998 That Genesis was a key text in the formation of the medieval intellectual world is well recognised But what were the motives and methods of those who used it This book looks at the writers and how they wrote about Genesis to reconstruct the intellectual history of the period It explores how their use of Genesis discloses common attitudes to revelation authority and one another In turn the book examines how awareness of their self understanding can help in understanding their exegesis Since they built on authorities and one another and wished to remain true to their authorities how did exegesis change and develop This study reveals a group who saw themselves as a single body dispersed over time charged with a common task as Christian Schoolmasters and who wished to retain all the had received make it suitable for teaching their students and ensure its continuance The book explores the intellectual bonds between those we usually study e g Augustine and umpteen others whose often anonymous exegeses we tend to ignore yet it was the cumulative impact of both that created medieval theology

Heidegger, 1996 Sounds of Silence İdlir Peçi, 2006 The subject of this thesis is the relationship between administrative supervision criminal investigation and the nemo tenetur principle The point of departure is the distinction made in Dutch law and doctrine between administrative supervision and criminal investigation Such a distinction is often made in the area of the enforcement of socio economic regulatory legislation where supervision and investigation are perceived as isolated phases of the regulatory process The supervision phase gives way to the investigation phase as soon as a suspicion that a criminal offence has been committed arises Initially one of the main arguments in favour of the distinction seems to have been that a citizen's obligation to provide information to the supervising authorities conflicts with a suspect's right to remain silent during the investigation phase Therefore the central question of this study is whether it is necessary to have a strict demarcation between administrative supervision and criminal investigation in order to better respect the nemo tenetur principle
