contains essays ranging in time from the Anglo Saxon period to the present and in topic from medieval recipe books to arguments in favour of women administering the sacrament Languages studied include non European languages as well as Latin and numerous European vernaculars as both source and target languages As any translator or student of translation quickly becomes aware it is impossible to divorce language from culture All the contributors to this volume struggle with the complexities of translation as a cultural act even when the focus would seem to be specifically linguistic It is these complexities which lend the study of the theory and practice of translation in the Middle Ages its enduring fascination
