

The background of the entire cover is a photograph of a two-lane asphalt road that curves gently through a forest. The trees are in peak autumn foliage, with shades of yellow, orange, and red. Sunlight filters through the canopy, creating a warm, hazy atmosphere. The road has a double yellow line in the center and white lines on the edges. The overall mood is peaceful and contemplative.

Cancer Journey A Caregiver S View From The Passenger Seat:

Cancer Journey: A Caregiver's View from the Passenger Seat Cynthia Zahm Siegfried, 2010-01 On the day my husband Jim was diagnosed with cancer we began a journey that changed us forever I was just a passenger along for the ride but I was profoundly affected by the illness Jim frequently said he believed cancer is harder on the caregiver than the patient I don't believe that for a minute One thing though is certain the view from the passenger seat is different During our trip I learned that being caregiver to a seriously ill person has problems different from but equally as serious as those of the patient Like many thrust into this position I was ill equipped to handle the job For help I turned to God who showed me great and mighty things which I had not known before Jeremiah 33:3 After recovering from the initial shock of the diagnosis I determined to help my husband fight the disease I hoped that through diligent research we could learn which treatments tools and tricks might put him in the ten percent who survived this kind of cancer for five years I became a woman with a mission But I soon realized this missionary needed help My real burden as a caregiver was the emotional stress not the physical A cancer diagnosis is followed by a psychological and spiritual crisis as we move through the stages of grief toward acceptance Before I could accept the possibility of my husband's death I had to answer the basic question Why are we here and where are we going Once I had done that I was able to rest on God's promises and find hope in the midst of a grim prognosis When I relinquished all illusions of control and depended on God for my strength and wisdom my burden was lightened I actually experienced moments of humor and joy on what would otherwise have been a dismal terrifying trip I found my place was not in the driver's seat but in the passenger seat offering support to my husband as God lovingly chauffeured us over the peaks and through the valleys True to His Word He made a way in the wilderness and streams in the desert Isaiah 43:19 On the journey I learned more about the character of God He helped me develop an attitude of thankfulness As He met our every need spiritual and emotional I learned how the Law of the Harvest works He showed me how to share my experiences with others to bring glory to Him When I responded in obedience the floodgates of heaven opened and He showered me with abundant blessings in the middle of a life crisis As I moved through the stages of grief God held me in His hand I have never felt closer to Him than during that time When I handed the steering wheel over to God He guided me through each stage of the journey and left me with the roadmap I share in this story

Cancer Journey Cynthia Siegfried, 2017-05-23 On the day my husband Jim was diagnosed with cancer we began a journey that changed us forever I was just a passenger along for the ride but I was profoundly affected by the illness Jim frequently said he believed cancer is harder on the caregiver than the patient I don't believe that for a minute One thing though is certain the view from the passenger seat is different During our trip I learned that being caregiver to a seriously ill person has problems different from but equally as serious as those of the patient Like many thrust into this position I was ill equipped to handle the job For help I turned to God who showed me great and mighty things which I had not known before Jeremiah 33:3 After recovering from the initial shock of the diagnosis I determined to help my husband fight the disease I hoped that through diligent research we could learn which treatments tools and tricks might put him in the ten percent who survived this kind of cancer for five years I became a woman with a mission But I soon realized this missionary needed help My real burden as a caregiver was the emotional stress not the physical A cancer diagnosis is followed by a psychological and spiritual crisis as we move through the stages of grief toward acceptance Before I could accept the possibility of my husband s death I had to answer the basic question Why are we here and where are we going Once I had done that I was able to rest on God s promises and find hope in the midst of a grim prognosis When I relinquished all illusions of control and depended on God for my strength and wisdom my burden was lightened I actually experienced moments of humor and joy on what would otherwise have been a dismal terrifying trip I found my place was not in the driver s seat but in the passenger seat offering support to my husband as God lovingly chauffeured us over the peaks and through the valleys True to His Word He made a way in the wilderness and streams in the desert Isaiah 43 19 On the journey I learned more about the character of God He helped me develop an attitude of thankfulness As He met our every need spiritual and emotional I learned how the Law of the Harvest works He showed me how to share my experiences with others to bring glory to Him When I responded in obedience the floodgates of heaven opened and He showered me with abundant blessings in the middle of a life crisis As I moved through the stages of grief God held me in His hand I have never felt closer to Him than during that time When I handed the steering wheel over to God He guided me through each stage of the journey and left me with the roadmap I share in this story Peace in the Face of Cancer Lynn Eib,2017 Millions of us are living in the shadow of cancer Some are hoping to beat the odds and become cancer free while others know they are facing cancer for the long haul And even more of us are standing by someone with a cancer diagnosis and feeling helpless as we grapple with the uncertainty it brings Whether the cancer is considered in remission cured or chronic it is possible to find peace as we face it In this beautiful giftable book cancer patient advocate Lynn Eib shares how to live well from the moment of diagnosis through the rest of life She weaves the story of her own experience as a long time cancer survivor and those of others around the world into these hope filled pages You ll discover how to bring God s peace into your own home and heart regardless of your or your loved one s medical prognosis Deluxe LeatherLike binding
