Chapter 1 section Mobilizing For Defense Notes:

The Americans McDougal-Littell Publishing Staff, 2002-03-04 United States Code United States, 1953 Public Administration and Public Affairs Nicholas Henry, 2015-07-14 Updated in its 12th edition Public Administration and Public Affairs shows readers how to govern efficiently effectively and responsibly in an age of political corruption and crises in public finance With a continuing and corroding crisis occurring as well as greater governance by nonprofit organizations and private contractors it is vital that readers are given the skills and tools to lead in such an environment Using easy to understand metaphors and an accessible writing style Public Administration and Public Affairs shows its readers how to govern better preparing them for a career in public administration Mobilizing for Modern War Paul A. C. Koistinen, 1997 In this volume Koistinen examines war planning and mobilizing in an era of rapid industrialization and reveals how economic mobilization for defense and war is shaped at the national level by the interaction of political economic and military institutions and by increasingly powerful and expensive weaponry Mobilizing India Tejaswini Niranjana, 2006-10-12 An innovative analysis of how ideas of Indian identity negotiated within the Indian diaspora in Trinidad affect cultural identities back home in India Resources in Education, 1998 Planning War, Pursuing Peace Paul A. C. Koistinen, 1998 The third volume in a magisterial five volume study of the political economy of American warfare Arsenal of World War II Paul A. C. Koistinen, 2004 Prolific munitions production keyed America's triumph in World War II but so did the complex economic controls needed to sustain that production Artillery tanks planes ships trucks and weaponry of every kind were constantly demanded by the military and readily supplied by American business While that relationship was remarkably successful in helping the U S win the war it also raised troubling issues about wartime economies that have never been fully resolved Paul Koistinen's fourth installment of a monumental five volume series on the political economy of American warfare focuses on the mobilization of national resources for a truly global war Koistinen comprehensively analyzes all relevant aspects of the World War II economy from 1940 through 1945 describing the nation's struggle to establish effective control over industrial supply and military demand and revealing the growing partnership between the corporate community and the armed services Koistinen traces the evolution of federal agencies mobilizing for war including the National Defense Advisory Commission the Office of Production Management and the Supply Priorities and Allocation Board and then focuses on the work of the War Production Board from 1942-1945 As the war progressed the WPB and related agencies oversaw the military's supply and procurement systems stabilized the economy while financing the war closely monitored labor relations and controlled the shipping and rationing of fuel and food In chronicling American mobilization Koistinen reveals how representatives of industry and the armed services expanded upon their growing prewar ties to shape policies for harnessing the economy and how federal agencies were subsequently riven with dissension as New Deal reformers and anti New Deal corporate elements battled for control over mobilization itself As the armed services emerged as the principal customers of a command economy the military industrial nexus consolidated its power and ultimately succeeded in bending the reformers to its will The product of exhaustive archival research Arsenal of World War II shows that mobilization meant more than simply harnessing the economy for war it also involved struggles for power and position among a great many interest groups and ideologies Nearly two decades in the making it provides an ambitious and enormously insightful overview of the emergence of the military industrial economy one that still resonates today as America continues to wage wars around the globe

Committee on Policy for Racial Justice,1989-05-08 None of the problems confronting the black community today are more critical to its future than those related to education Blacks must demand that schools shift their focus from the supposed deficiencies of the black child to the social barriers that stand in the way of academic success The historical interest of the black community in education can be traced back to the antebellum South and the leadership of W E B Du Bois and Booker T Washington Despite the social and political accomplishments of blacks since the Brown decision the following barriers still diminish the education of many black children 1 schools often reinforce social inequalities rather than overcome them 2 stereotypes about low income groups and their lifestyles form the basis for low expectations and self fulfilling prophecies of failure 3 black and other low income students are shunted away from mainstream classroom instruction by the track system 4 the use of standardized tests discriminates against the intelligence styles of minority students 5 the number of black teachers is decreasing and 6 successful programs such as Head Start and those funded under Chapter 1 of the Education Consolidation and Improvement Act ECIA are not adequately funded to serve all eligible students Research on school effectiveness identifies the characteristics of schools that successfully educate students and the work of the School Development Program in New Haven Connecticut focuses on the social context needed for improved teaching and learning Progressive educational reform must focus on the following areas 1 recognizing the centrality of human relationships 2 eliminating barriers to effective teaching and learning and 3 mobilizing physical and political resources A list of 60 references is appended FMW The Commercial and Financial Chronicle ,1916 The Commercial & Financial Chronicle ... ,1916 Labor Notes ,1941 Quarterly of the National Fire Protection Association ,1950 Riveting and Rationing in Dixie Mary Martha Thomas,1987 The first book to examine the impact of World War II on the roles of women in an individual state Covers the experience of both black and white Alabama women as defense workers volunteers and homemakers The most important change for women during the war years was their employment in jobs normally held by men which posed an implicit challenge to traditional notions about femininity and female limitations Thomas describes the women employed in the defense industries how they were recruited and trained where they worked and under what conditions and what changes employers made in the workplace to accommodate women She also discusses the experience of the women who served as volunteers in the Ground Observer Corps the Citizens Service Corps the Red Cross and other volunteer agencies In addition the author considers how homemakers coped during a time of rationing housing shortages lack of schools and inadequate medical facilities

American Women in the 20th Century Robert L. Daniel, 1987 History Teacher's Magazine, 1918

The Future of NATO S. Nelson Drew, 1991-04-30 How should NATO's military strategy and force posture in Western Europe be handled given today's changing relations between East and West Five relatively senior U.S. military officers spent a year exploring this issue as National Security Fellows at the Kennedy School of Harvard University

The Future of NATO serves as a reference based upon their analyses of the changes in the Soviet security posture and the political response of Western Europe to the collapse of the Warsaw pact It is an analytical tool that deals with the requirements that any new NATO strategy will have to meet to be relevant It is a catalyst for discussion based on the proposal to replace forward defense strategy with resilient defense Resilient defense articulates one way in which the United States and NATO can accommodate the pressures for reduced defense spending in the face of a reduced military threat Resilient defense is evolutionary rather than revolutionary in nature It takes advantage of increased warning time to permit a strategy that draws heavily on existing mobilization capabilities The strategy assumes cuts in active forces yet it is designed to maintain a conventional defense capability across even deeper cuts by making more efficient use of lower levels of forces This volume deals with more than just the political elements of the NATO alliance or details of military strategies It also studies the interrelationship among political economic and military requirements underpinning Alliance security Those concerned with military strategy and international security affairs will find this work timely and relevant
