under the European Neighborhood Policy Framework and it seems quite ambitious Nevertheless the challenges presented could not be omitted from this analysis not only financial ones but also those occurring from regional state actors such as Turkey which has adopted an overall negative stance towards the Project In addition the European gradual decarbonization policy seems to further hinder the implementation of the pipeline via the EU Green Deal initiative due to its plans which aim to the energy transition towards a cleaner greener environmentally sustainable future based on the model of the circular economy Therefore this paper initially presents an overview of the European Neighborhood Policy at the first chapter then it proceeds to analyze the stance of each state involved in the tripartite cooperation as well as the particular challenges each one deals with at the second chapter and last but not least it concludes at the third chapter with the impact of the Covid 19 pandemic on the Project and the shift of the European energy policy towards achieving the environmental viability by using the EU Green Deal Plan Finally an Annex at the end of this paper is provided in order to facilitate the reader s understanding of the facts here presented
