Grossman,John J. Cogan,2012-09-01 This book originates from a collaborative research initiative to examine how various societies in the Asia Pacific Region construct moral and civic education and to what extent these systems achieve the democratic objective of creating socially responsible citizens In many western societies there is at least a rhetorical tendency to separate the moral and civic dimensions of citizenship education and in some cases to exclude the moral dimension from the discourse of preparing citizens However as cross societal dialogues and research about citizenship education have increased in the past two decades scholars have identified differences in the emphasis put on the moral dimension of citizenship education across the Asia Pacific region In many predominantly Confucian Islamic and Buddhist societies for example the emphasis on the moral dimension of citizenship education is explicit and in some cases central While awareness of a divide or perhaps more appropriately a continuum in the role of moral versus civic education in democratic societies has been recognized for some time to our knowledge this book marks the first effort of this scope to address the issue of the moral civic divide in citizenship education Thus through a cross cultural dialogue across societies in the Asia Pacific Region this book addresses the issue of whether elements of both civic and moral education can be effectively joined to create a socially responsible citizen Catalogue University of Maryland, College Park,1920 Catalogue Ohio State University,1929 Bulletin of the University of Utah ,1920 Educational Publication North Carolina. Department of Public Instruction,1927 Good Democratic Leadership John Kane,Haig Patapan,2014 Good Democratic Leadership On Prudence and Judgment in Modern Democracies explores whether in the current atmosphere of international economic and political tension and more generally democracies foster and support effective political judgment and good leadership In one sense with their ideals of transparent government and extensive deliberation democracies might appear to promote such good leadership and sound decision making Yet in another sense democratic leaders continue to face a number of challenges including the sometimes cumbersome institutional limits placed on their discretion the need for balance between national interest popular sentiment and universal values as well as the problem of disproportionate influence of commercial interests in the management of the economy In analysing various aspects of democratic leadership judgement and decision making from a variety of theoretical and practical perspectives all the contributors to this book address this question of the extent to which democracies support good judgment and thereby the possibility of good leadership in democracies Los Angeles School Journal ,1925 Announcements University of Chicago,1929 Annual Register University of Chicago,1915 Announcement of the University of Georgia University of Georgia,1915 Journal of Education ,1914 Proceedings ...
