Executive Function and Education Mariëtte Huizinga, Dieter Baeyens, Jacob A. Burack, 2018-09-21 Executive function is an umbrella term for various cognitive processes that are central to goal directed behavior thoughts and emotions These processes are especially important in novel or demanding situations which require a rapid and flexible adjustment of behavior to the changing demands of the environment The development of executive function relies on the maturation of associated brain regions as well as on stimulation in the child's social contexts especially the home and school Over the past decade the term executive function has become a buzzword in the field of education as both researchers and educators underscore the importance of skills like goal setting planning and organizing in academic success Accordingly in initiating this Research Topic and eBook our goal was to provide a forum for state of the art theoretical and empirical work on this that both facilitates communication among researchers from diverse fields and provides a theoretically sound source of information for educators The contributors to this volume who hail from several different countries in Europe and North America have certainly accomplished this goal in their nuanced and cutting edge depictions of the complex links among various executive function components and educational success

The role of evidence in developing effective educational inclusion Joseph Mintz, Brahm Norwich, 2023-12-13 There has been considerable interest internationally in how research can be effectively translated to have an impact on practice in schools The application of evidence informed approaches in the field of education is contested and debated Such debates are intensified in relation to the issue of how best to include children with diverse learning needs in the classroom The role of knowledge science and evidence in how we both conceptualize and best support children with special educational needs and other forms of diversity in the classroom remains an open question in terms of both policy and practice Although there is a considerable and growing body of literature on evidence informed practice in education in general there has been less attention paid to its implications for the domain of educational inclusion specifically However tensions between differing conceptualisations of difference and the role of categorisation present questions as yet not fully answered as to the ways in which evidence can and should articulate with practice in this specific domain For example issues of what is inclusion the place of norms and values that define inclusion how we conceptualize and think about difference across culture language and cognition are raised when we think about the application of evidence to practice in the area of educational inclusion

Non-State Actors in Education in the Global South Prachi Srivastava, Geoffrey Walford, 2019-10-23 Fuelled by social equity concerns there have been vigorous debates on the appropriateness of certain non state actors particularly those with commercial and entrepreneurial motives to meet universal education goals There are further questions on the relative effectiveness of government and private schooling in delivering good learning outcomes for all Within this debate several empirical questions abound Do students from poorer backgrounds achieve as well in private schools as their advantaged peers What are the relative out of pocket costs of accessing private schooling compared to government schooling Is fee paying non state provision affordable to the poorest households What is the nature of the education market at different levels What are the relationships between different non state actors and the state and how should they conduct themselves The chapters in this volume present new empirical evidence and conduct critical analysis on some of these questions This book was originally published as a special issue of the Oxford Review of Education
