

The Civil War

1861-1865

Introduction

The Civil War was fought between the Northern and Southern states from 1861 to 1865.

Causes of the Civil War

Sectionalism	There was a strong sense of loyalty to one's own state or region. Many Northerners felt that the Southern states were too independent and that they should be more closely tied to the Union.
Slavery	Slavery was a major issue in the North-South divide. The Southern states were heavily dependent on slave labor for their economy, while the Northern states were moving towards free labor.
States' Rights	The Southern states believed that they had the right to govern themselves as they saw fit, without interference from the federal government. This led to the secession of Southern states in 1861.

1861-1865

The Civil War began in 1861 when the Southern states seceded from the Union.

The war was fought primarily in the Eastern and Southern states.

The Union eventually won the war, and slavery was abolished.

The war resulted in the death of approximately 600,000 soldiers.

The war was a turning point in American history, leading to the abolition of slavery.

The war also led to the Reconstruction era.

The Civil War was a defining moment in American history, shaping the nation's future.

1861-1865
