

Continuity and Change Editorial

The beauty of a journal entering its seventy-second year of publication is that it endures because of the value it has created among constituencies that prize, appreciate, and value it. This is certainly the case for Public Administration Review (PAR). Since its founding in 1940, PAR has become the premier journal in public administration. The new editorial team is the latest in a long line of stewards of a journal that is valued not only in the United States, but now around the world.

Thanks to the Departing Editorial Team

In a few short months, Michael McGuire and I have learned how demanding the roles of editor in chief and managing editor are. The public administration community—past, present, and future—owes a huge debt of gratitude to Richard Stollman, the departing PAR editor in chief, and Jos Raudschelden, managing editor. Richard and Jos served PAR enthusiastically and diligently for six years. They also have been gracious with their time during the transition, which covered most of 2011.

Richard and Jos had the foresight to recruit an outstanding team of editors. They, too, deserve our thanks for a job well done. We extend our gratitude to the following people:

Flindy Lauer Schuchter, New Jersey Institute of Technology, Book Review Editor
Robert F. Duran, American University, Research Editor
Noema M. Ricucci, Rutgers University–Newark, Administrative Profile Editor
Akira Nakamura, Meiji University, International Editor
Nancy Roberts, Naval Postgraduate School, Public Documents Editor
Karen Hayes-Thumann, University of Oklahoma, Graphic Designer
Christine Gibbs-Springer, University of Nevada, Las Vegas, Communications Editor

Kevin R. Kosar, Library of Congress, Contributing Editor
Soon Joong Kwon, University of Oklahoma, Systems Manager
Sybren Murray, Cleveland State University, Business Manager
Gene A. Brewster, University of Georgia, Case Editor
Steven Castleman, University of Colorado, Logistical Editor

Standing on the Shoulders of Our Predecessors

A journal that has persisted for 72 years owes its longevity not only to its most recent editorial team, but also to many others whose service is more distant. As a recipient of the Waldo Award, I am mindful of Dwight Waldo's biography and his 11 years as PAR editor in chief—several of those years overlapping with my formative years as a doctoral student and scholar. As a member of the Indiana University faculty, I am also mindful of my predecessors from this institution: York Wilbern, Vincent Ottom, and Lou Garthrop.

One former editor to whom I am especially indebted is Chester Newland, who edited PAR from 1984 to 1990. Cher was already a prominent contributor to the field when I began my academic career in 1974. He nominated me for a term on the PAR editorial board in 1987 and has been a valued colleague and friend my entire career. I have been fortunate to have had many years to observe and learn from Cher. His passion for and dedication to PAR are second to none. My editorial team and I aspire to emulate Cher's passionate commitment.

PAR's Editorial Mission

Our goal for PAR is captured concisely by the words on its cover: "... to developing the art and science of public administration. ..." Of course, the challenge is translating those words into reality. Our mutual task is to do precisely that.

Continuity And Change Journal:

Continuity and change, 1994 Continuity and Change, 1991 Index to Jewish Periodicals, 2002 An author and subject index to selected and American Anglo Jewish journals of general and scholarly interests Journal of Applied Psychology Granville Stanley Hall, 1917 Health System Decentralization and Recentralization Andrea Terlizzi, 2019-04-02 This book explores the dynamics of health system decentralization and recentralization investigating why and how the territorial organization of health systems changes or remains stable over time Drawing from historical and discursive institutionalism the explanatory framework revolves around the role of ideas discourse and institutions Through the analysis of the Italian and Danish health systems the book corroborates the value of combining ideational and institutional accounts in explaining institutional continuity and change offering new empirical and theoretical insights into the study of public policy making The book will be of use to students and scholars interested in health politics and policy federalism and decentralization and theories of institutional change Class Struggle and the New Deal Rhonda F. Levine, 1988 In this reassessment of New Deal policymaking Rhonda Levine argues that the major constraints upon and catalysts for FDR's policies were rooted in class conflict Countering neo Marxist and state centred theories which focus on administrative and bureaucratic structures she contends that too little attention has been paid to the effect of class struggle

Journal New South Wales. Parliament. Legislative Council, 1880 A Research Agenda for Organisational Continuity and Change Tor Hernes, Miriam Feuls, 2023-10-06 Research has overlooked the need for modern organisations to enact continuity during periods of change This Research Agenda addresses this by considering continuity and change as engaging in various forms of mutual interplay The underlying theme of this book is that change needs continuity just as continuity needs change The National Real Estate Journal, 1927 Journal of the Society for Psychical Research Society for Psychical Research (Great Britain), 1890 Current Index to Journals in Education, 1988 Journal of Mathematics and Physics, 1927 Populism and Foreign Policy SANDRA. DESTRA, Johannes Plagemann, 2025-12-29 How and why does the formation of populist governments lead to changes in foreign policy This book theorizes and empirically analyzes how populism understood as a thin centred ideology impacts foreign policy It argues that two common features of populists foreign policy the use of foreign policy issues for domestic political mobilization and the personalization of decision making are key to explain different intensities of foreign policy change The strongest change can be expected if both mobilization and personalization in a specific issue area are strong More moderate changes are a result of a combination of strong mobilization and weak personalization or weak mobilization and strong personalization The empirical analysis focuses on transitions from non populist to populist governments in Bolivia India the Philippines and Turkey It addresses foreign policy change in four fields the escalation of international disputes the provision of global public goods the engagement in multilateral institutions and the reorientation of each country's international partnerships As a part of an abductive research process the theory of populism and foreign policy initially applied to cases from the Global South is then also used to analyze populist governments foreign policies in Hungary the UK and Italy

World Culture Re-Contextualised Jürgen Schriewer,2017-10-02 Impressive strands of research have shown the emergent reality of increasing world level interconnection in almost every field of social action As a consequence theories and models have been developed which are aimed at conceptualising this new reality along the lines of an institutionalised World Culture This offers a new understanding of the worldwide diffusion of specifically modern i e mainly Western rules ideologies and organisational patterns and of attendant harmonisation and standardisation of fields of social action World Culture theories have not gone unchallenged Rather cross cultural studies have revealed much more complex processes of regional fragmentation and re diversification of the refraction appropriation and hybridisation through distinct socio cultural conditioning of world level models and ideas and of the ongoing effectiveness both of structural path dependencies and of specifically cultural aspects such as collective memories social meanings and religious or ideological belief systems Comparative research has thus highlighted an intricate simultaneity of contrary currents of the increasing world level interconnection of communication and exchange relations on the one hand and on the other the persistence of context specific interpretations translations and deviation generating re contextualisations of world level forces and challenges This research provides the theoretical problematique that animates this volume The chapters explore the conceptual tools and explanatory power of theories and models which do not just oppose or reject World Culture theory but are instead suited to complementing and differentiating it The volume offers an enlightening conceptualisation of the intricate interaction of global processes with local agency and of world level forces with the self evolutionary potentials inherent in specific contexts socio cultural structures and distinctive meanings constellations This book was originally published as a special issue of Comparative Education

The Future of Federalism Richard Eccleston,Richard Krever,2017-01-27 The crisis and its aftermath had a dramatic short term effect on federal relations and as the twelve case studies in this volume show set in place a new set of socio political factors that are shaping the longer run process of institutional evolution and adaptation in federal systems This illuminating book illustrates how an understanding of these complex dynamics is crucial to the development of policies needed for effective and sustainable federal governance in the twenty first century

Dynamic Federalism Patricia Popelier,2021-03-09 This book offers a new theory of federalism The work critically discusses traditional federal theories and builds on theories that focus on the dynamics of federalism It offers a definition of federalism and federal organizations that encompasses both new and old types of multi tiered system Unlike traditional federal theory it is well suited to research both multinational and mononational systems It also takes into account the complexity of these systems with bodies of governance at the local regional national and supranational level The book is divided into three parts the first part outlines the contours of dynamic federalism based on a critical overview of traditional federal theory the second part develops comprehensive indexes to measure autonomy and cohesion of multi tiered systems and the third part focuses on the dynamics of federal organizations with a special focus on institutional hubs for change Dynamic Federalism will be an essential resource for legal social economic and political scholars interested in federalism regionalism and de centralization The Politics of Federalization in Myanmar Dulyapak Preecharush,2023-02-24 This book examines the trajectory of federalization in Myanmar s political development evaluating the attitudes of different political actors toward and negotiation strategies for designing federalism It argues that three factors drive federalization in Myanmar namely constitutionalization conflict management and democratization The confluence of these forces arrived at a critical juncture in 2011 the start of Myanmar s political transition leading to significant changes in Myanmar s federation process By analyzing the changes and continuities in federalism building the book charts the dynamic pathway toward Myanmar s current federalization revealing how periods of progress and stagnation reflect varying world views and the individual strategies of prominent political actors Offering a systematic conceptual framework on federalism in Myanmar this will be a useful resource for students and scholars of Political Science Comparative Politics and Southeast Asian Politics

The American Journal of Psychology Granville Stanley Hall,Edward Bradford Titchener,Karl M. Dallenbach,Madison Bentley,Edwin Garrigues Boring,Margaret Floy Washburn,1899 Trade Policy in Multilevel Government Christian Freudlsperger,2020-04-11 Trade Policy in Multilevel Government investigates how multilevel polities organize openness in a globalizing political and economic environment In recent years the multilevel politics of trade caught a broader public s attention not least due to the Wallonian regional parliament s initial rejection of the EU Canada trade deal in 2016 In all multilevel polities competencies held by states and regions have increasingly become the subject of international rule setting This is particularly so in the field of trade which has progressively targeted so called behind the border regulatory barriers In their reaction to this deep trade agenda constituent units in different multilevel polities have shown widely varying degrees of openness to liberalizing their markets Why is that This book argues that domestic institutions and procedures of intergovernmental relations are the decisive factor Countering a widely held belief among practitioners and analysts of trade policy that involving subcentral actors complicates trade negotiations it demonstrates that the more voice a multilevel polity affords its constituent units in trade policy making the less the latter have an incentive to eventually exit from emerging trade deals While in shared rule systems constituent unit governments are directly represented along the entirety of the policy cycle in self rule systems territorial representation is achieved merely indirectly Shared rule systems are hence more effective than self rule systems in organizing openness to trade The book tests its theory s explanatory power on the understudied case of international procurement liberalization in extensive studies of three systems of multilevel government Canada the European Union and the United States
