(Chapter – 1) (Sexual Reproduction in Flowering Plants)

(Class – XII)

Question 1:

Name the parts of an angiosperm flower in which development of male and female gametophyte take place.

Answer 1:

The male gametophyte or the pollen grain develops inside the pollen chamber of the anther, whereas the female gametophyte (also known as the embryo sac) develops inside the nucellus of the ovule from the functional megaspore.

Question 2:

Differentiate between microsporogenesis and megasporogenesis. Which type of cell division occurs during these events? Name the structures formed at the end of these two events.

Answer 2:

Microsporogenesis		Megasporogenesis
1.	It is the process of the formation of microspore tetrads from a microspore mother cell through meiosis.	It is the process of the formation of the four megaspores from a megaspore mother cell in the region of the nucellus through meiosis
2.	It occurs inside the pollen sac of the anther.	It occurs inside the ovule.

Both events (microsporogenesis and megasporogenesis) involve the process of meiosis or reduction division which results in the formation of haploid gametes from the microspore and megaspore mother cells.

Microsporogenesis results in the formation of haploid microspores from a diploid microspore mother cell. On the other hand, megasporogenesis results in the formation of haploid megaspores from a diploid megaspore mother cell.

Question 3:

Arrange the following terms in the correct developmental sequence:

Pollen grain, sporogenous tissue, microspore tetrad, pollen mother cell, male gametes

Answer 3:

The correct development sequence is as follows:

Sporogenous tissue – pollen mother cell – microspore tetrad – Pollen grain – male gamete

During the development of microsporangium, each cell of the sporogenous tissue acts as a pollen mother cell and gives rise to a microspore tetrad, containing four haploid microspores by the process of meiosis (microsporogenesis). As the anther matures, these microspores dissociate and develop into pollen grains. The pollen grains mature and give rise to male gametes.

Question 4:

With a neat, labelled diagram, describe the parts of a typical angiosperm ovule.

methodologies used in test equating This book provides an introduction to test equating which both discusses the most frequently used equating methodologies and covers many of the practical issues involved This second edition expands upon the coverage of the first edition by providing a new chapter on test scaling and a second on test linking Test scaling is the process of developing score scales that are used when scores on standardized tests are reported In test linking scores from two or more tests are related to one another Linking has received much recent attention due largely to investigations of linking similarly named tests from different test publishers or tests constructed for different purposes The expanded coverage in the second edition also includes methodology for using polytomous item response theory in equating The themes of the second edition include the purposes of equating scaling and linking and their practical context data collection designs statistical methodology designing reasonable and useful equating scaling and linking studies importance of test development and quality control processes to equating equating error and the underlying statistical assumptions for equating Given the perennial debates about academic standards and grade inflation it is my view that tools such as those described in this book should be adopted much more widely by the academic community than they are at present This book provides an excellent overview and I strongly recommend it Short Book Reviews of the ISI April 2005 I highly recommend this book to everybody who has any interest in equating and linking be they a student practitioner or researcher Psychometrika 2006
