A novel. Robert William Chambers, 1913 Cardigan Robert W. Chambers, 1901 Cardigan Robert William Chambers, 1901 Cardigan Robert William Chambers, 2020-09-28 On the 1st of May 1774 the anchor ice which for so many months had silver plated the river's bed with frosted crusts was ripped off and dashed into a million gushing flakes by the amber outrush of the springtide flood On that day I had laid my plans for fishing the warm shallows where the small fry swarming in early spring attract the great lean fish which have lain benumbed all winter under their crystal roof of ice So certain was I of a holiday undisturbed by school room tasks that I whistled up boldly as I sat on my cot bed sorting hooks according to their sizes and smoothing out my feather flies to make sure the moths had not loosened wing or body It was therefore with misgiving that I heard Peter and Esk go into the school room stamping their feet to make what noise they were able and dragging their horn books along the balustrade Now we had no tasks set us for three weeks for our schoolmaster Mr Yost journeying with the post to visit his mother in Pennsylvania had been shot and scalped at Eastertide near Fort Pitt probably by some drunken Delaware My guardian Sir William Johnson who as all know was Commissioner of Indian Affairs for the Crown had but recently returned from the upper castle with his secretary Captain Walter Butler and preoccupied with the lamentable murder of Mr Yost had found no time to concern himself with us or our affairs However having despatched a messenger with strings and belts to remonstrate with the sachems of the Lenni Lenape they being as I have said suspected of the murder we discovered that Sir William had also written to Albany for another schoolmaster to replace Mr Yost and it gave me for one no pleasure to learn it though it did please Silver Heels who wearied me with her devotion to her books So hearing Esk and fat Peter on their way to the school room I took alarm believing that our new schoolmaster had arrived so seized my fish rod and started to slip out of the house before any one might summon me However I was seen in the hallway by Captain Butler Sir William's secretary and ordered to find my books and report to him at the school room I of course paid no heed to Mr Butler but walked defiantly down stairs although he called me twice in his cold menacing voice And I should have continued triumphantly out of the door and across the fields to the river had not I met Silver Heels dancing through the lower hallway her slate and pencil under her arm and loudly sucking a cone of maple sugar
