Controller

The REVIO. Is a major independent unit. It is powered by two 3.5. V alkaline batteries. The controller is supplied with the batteries street. To prevent inadvertient operation during transport or storage, a paper battery transit tab is inserted. The REVIO is a microprocessor based controller using a potential-free contact as an output relay. The measuring element is an NTC resistor. A reserve of approx. 30 a ensures the stored data will be retained while the batteries are replaced

Ordering

When ordering, please use the appropriate type reference.

Mounting Guide

The unit is to be mounted on an inner wall of the reference room, about 1.50 m above the floor. Not in niches, shelves, behind ourtains and doors, not near heat sources; and not exposed to direct solar

The controller is supplied complete with mounting instructions. For remote operation, a separate cable must be used (shielded, if montestinies.

Commissioning Guide

Prior to commissioning the plant, the wiring to the regulating unit is to be checked and a functional test carried out.

The paper battery transit tab, which prevents inadvertent operation of the unit during transport and storage, must be removed. The control mode of the REV10... can be changed by means of a switch located at the rear of the unit:

- The standard position, providing PID control with a cycle time of 12 minutes, covers the majority of applications
- If the space temperature fluctuates too much, the cycle time can by reduced to 6 minutes by operating the switch
- For extremely difficult control systems, the position "on/off controller with P control" can be used

In the reference room, the thermostatic radiator valves must be blocked in their fully open position.
