Political Power and Colonial Development in British Central Africa 1938-1960s Alan Cousins, 2022-12-30 This book focuses on the late colonial history of Zambia and Malawi which between 1953 and 1963 were part of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland Although there were many links in their history and between their populations the two territories British protectorates under Colonial Office control contrasted greatly in power structures in their economies and in their development Europeans living in Northern Rhodesia with a power base in the mining economy were able to establish a dominant position in the territory after the Second World War By the 1950s it looked as though they would have with Southern Rhodesian Europeans a long hegemony gaining independence from Britain as a new Dominion which would mean control over both Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland through the Federation Thus white ethnicity and ideology are essential factors in this book relating to the struggle for power from just before the Second World War up to the 1960s However crises in 1959 and 1960 led to the collapse of the Federation A second focus is on issues of social and economic development For Africans in Nyasaland and in rural parts of Northern Rhodesia there was a relatively weak economy in this period a pattern of limited cash crop production while many people became caught up in labour migration subordinate to powerful European dominated economic forces within southern Africa This meant that colonial policies aimed at rural development were fundamentally flawed The book also looks at the actual nature of rural economic change as opposed to colonial policies and discusses alternative visions of the future which were put forward The argument is put that historians have often concentrated on the activities of the main nationalist movements in Nyasaland and Northern Rhodesia seeing them as bringing progress away from colonialism and towards independence Here there is an attempt to draw out the complexities of life and a variety of responses in the colonial situation progress coming in a number of forms but not always being achieved

Contesting Leviathan Les Beldo, 2019-10-15 In 1999 off the coast of the Pacific Northwest the first gray whale in seven decades was killed by Makah whalers The hunt marked the return of a centuries old tradition and predictably set off a fierce political and environmental debate Whalers from the Makah Indian Tribe and antiwhaling activists have clashed for over twenty years with no end to this conflict in sight In Contesting Leviathan anthropologist Les Beldo describes the complex judicial and political climate for whale conservation in the United States and the limits of the current framework in which whales are treated as large fish managed by the National Marine Fisheries Service Emphasizing the moral dimension of the conflict between the Makah the US government and antiwhaling activists Beldo brings to light the lived ethics of human animal interaction as well as how different groups claim to speak for the whale the only silent party in this conflict A timely and sensitive study of a complicated issue this book calls into question anthropological expectations regarding who benefits from the exercise of state power in environmental conflicts especially where indigenous groups are involved Vividly told and rigorously argued Contesting Leviathan will appeal to anthropologists scholars of indigenous culture animal activists and any reader interested in the place of animals in contemporary life
