condenser In the electromagnetic system a capacity has the same dimension as the quotient of a time divided by a resistance hence the suitable measurement of a time and a resistance will determine a capacity If the time be measured in seconds and the resistance in c g s units the capacity will be expressed in c g s units while if the time and resistance be measured in seconds and ohms respectively the capacity is given in farads An application of this principle is shown in Fig 35 where x and y are the coils of a differential galvanometer and T a tuning fork contact maker charging and discharging the condenser h at a known frequency The condenser charges at the battery pressure and discharges through the coil y Coil x is constantly excited by a shunt current Now if the resistances ab and be are so chosen that the galvanometer does not deflect and if we let i j resistance of ab R2 resistance of ac Bg
