Purpose: Explore the nature of electrical forces (Coulomb's Law) and have some physics fun.

Introduction: We will utilize the simulation program "Electric Field Hockey" which illustrates the interaction force between charges in a game situation. We will utilize the program in two ways. In the first part you will experiment with the forces on a charged puck in an organized fashion to answer the questions below. In the second part, you use this knowledge to score points to at least level 2.

Procedure:

Part I – Explore the simulation

1. Point your web browser to the PhET site and locate the Electric Field Hockey simulation under Physics: Electricity, Magnets and Circuits and select Run Now! or you may go to http://phet.colorado.edu/new/simulations/sims.php?sim=Electric_Field_Hockey
2. Spend a couple minutes playing with the simulation to get acquainted with the controls. Answer the following questions:
 - a. With a positively charged puck and a positive driving charge from the bin, in what direction is the force on the puck? As the driving charge gets closer to the puck, what happens to the size of the driving force?
 - b. With a positively charged puck and a negative driving charge from the bin, how does the force on the puck react compared to the positive driving charge?
