Wilde, 2013-04-18 Finally here is a modern self contained text on quantum information theory suitable for graduate level courses Developing the subject from the ground up it covers classical results as well as major advances of the past decade Beginning with an extensive overview of classical information theory suitable for the non expert the author then turns his attention to quantum mechanics for quantum information theory and the important protocols of teleportation super dense coding and entanglement distribution He develops all of the tools necessary for understanding important results in quantum information theory including capacity theorems for classical entanglement assisted private and quantum communication The book also covers important recent developments such as superadditivity of private coherent and Holevo information and the superactivation of quantum capacity This book will be warmly welcomed by the upcoming generation of quantum information theorists and the already established community of classical information theorists Putting Ourselves Back in the Equation George

Musser, 2023-11-07 This is a delightful account of one of the deepest and most fascinating explorations going on today at the frontier of our knowledge Carlo Rovelli bestselling author of The Order of Time and Seven Brief Lessons on Physics Musser knows that the point of popular science is to get a sense of what s at stake what kinds of answers are being offered to difficult questions and why it all matters One could not ask more of Putting Ourselves Back in the Equation on all three counts it delivers Julian Baggini The Wall Street Journal A revelatory exploration of how a theory of everything depends upon our understanding of the human mind The whole goal of physics is to explain what we observe For centuries physicists believed that observations yielded faithful representations of what is out there But when they began to study the subatomic realm they found that observation often interferes with what is being observed that the act of seeing changes what we see The same is true of cosmology our view of the universe is inevitably distorted by observation bias And so whether they re studying subatomic particles or galaxies physicists must first explain consciousness and for that they must turn to neuroscientists and philosophers of mind Neuroscientists have painstakingly built up an understanding of the structure of the brain Could this help physicists understand the levels of self organization they observe in other systems These same physicists meanwhile are trying to explain how particles organize themselves into the objects around us Could their discoveries help explain how neurons produce our conscious experience Exploring these questions and more George Musser tackles the extraordinary interconnections between quantum mechanics cosmology human consciousness and artificial intelligence Combining vivid descriptive writing with portraits of scientists working on the cutting edge Putting Ourselves Back in the Equation shows how theories of everything depend on theories of mind and how they might be one and the same

The New Global Rulers Tim Büthe, Walter Mattli, 2013-07-21 Global private regulations who wins who loses and why Over the past two decades governments have delegated extensive regulatory authority to international private sector organizations This internationalization and privatization of rule making has been motivated not only by the economic benefits of common rules for global markets but also by the realization that government regulators often lack the expertise and resources to deal with increasingly complex and urgent regulatory tasks The New Global Rulers examines who writes the rules in international private organizations as well as who wins who loses and why Tim B the and Walter Mattli examine three powerful global private regulators the International Accounting Standards Board which develops financial reporting rules used by corporations in more than a hundred countries and the International Organization for Standardization and the International Electrotechnical Commission which account for 85 percent of all international product standards B the and Mattli offer both a new framework for understanding global private regulation and detailed empirical analyses of such regulation based on multi country multi industry business surveys They find that global rule making by technical experts is highly political and that even though rule making has shifted to the international level domestic institutions remain crucial Influence in this form of global private governance is not a function of the economic power of states but of the ability of domestic standard setters to provide timely information and speak with a single voice B the and Mattli show how domestic institutions abilities differ particularly between the two main standardization players the United States and Europe CEPAL Review ,2009 The Electrical Journal ,1907 Book Review Index - 2009 Cumulation Dana Ferguson,2009-08 Book Review Index provides quick access to reviews of books periodicals books on tape and electronic media representing a wide range of popular academic and professional interests The up to date coverage wide scope and inclusion of citations for both newly published and older materials make Book Review Index an exceptionally useful reference tool More than 600 publications are indexed including journals and national general interest publications and newspapers Book Review Index is available in a three issue subscription covering the current year or as an annual cumulation covering the past year ICIS Chemical Business ,2008
