Achieving Sustainable E-Government in Pacific Island States Rowena Cullen, Graham Hassall, 2017-02-17 This book analyzes the common set of obstacles to the development and integration of government Information and Communication Technology ICT projects and effective e government initiatives in developing countries It draws on the expertise and experience of more developed states in the Pacific notably Australia and New Zealand both highly rated in global rankings for e government and active in a variety of e government development projects across the region There has been a general failure to identify priorities and align projects with local needs in ICT e government projects Small Island Developing States or SIDS present a unique problem in terms of e government Not only do they suffer from a common set of barriers to ICT development such as their remoteness geographical dispersion moist tropical climates largely rural populations and lack of ICT capacity and infrastructure but are also dependent on external agencies for investment and must negotiate with powerful donors who have conflicting agendas E government is widely regarded as transformational increasing efficiency productivity accountability economic growth and citizen involvement But while the governments of SIDS are committed to harnessing ICTs for effective government and economic development they face major challenges in establishing successful e government initiatives due to the problems outlined above coupled with a lack of HR capacities and appropriate strategies and policies Drawing on the experience of the states mentioned above as well as regional quasi governmental bodies nongovernmental organizations NGOs aid agencies and the private sector the book will be of interest to researchers and students in the fields of e government public administration political science communication information science and social media

Development Problems and Prospects in Pacific Islands States Biman C. Prasad, Kartik Chandra Roy, 2007 Pacific Island countries are undergoing fundamental political and economic changes due to the process of globalisation Many of them are struggling to come to grips with the global economic challenges of participating in a world of freer trade Their smallness distance from the major markets and vulnerability to natural disasters presents special challenges Globalisation however also provides a window of opportunity for some of them to improve their economic growth performance through increasing exports investment and technological advancement and labour mobility This book deals with a number of important issues relevant for improving the economic growth performances of the Pacific Island countries Good governance developing appropriate and quality institutions to promote investment and exports are major challenges for most of them In addition the volume also provides case studies discussing the role of foreign aid remittances and labour mobility role of the agricultural sector role of the informal sector management of public finances and the state of the public sector reform Pacific Power? Joanne Wallis, 2017-07-17 Australia is much larger and has significantly more military and economic power than its Pacific Island neighbours As a result it is frequently described as having a natural right to lead in the region Yet Australia has found it difficult to effectively influence Pacific Island states in pursuit of its strategic interests It provides the definitive account of how and how effectively Australia has sought to influence Pacific Island states in pursuit of its strategic interests since 1975 the year that Papua New Guinea Australia's former colonial territory gained independence Informed by interviews with key decision makers Pacific Power analyses why Australia has had difficulty exercising influence in the Pacific Islands and identifies how Australia can more effectively influence Pacific Island states in pursuit of its strategic interests and how Australia can present itself more as a Pacific partner than power Fiji Background Paper and NZAID/Fiji Country Programme Strategy, 2005 Asien, 2006 Terrorism Ben Saul, 2012-02-07 International anti terrorism measures existed long before 11 September 2001 but have increased markedly since A myriad of norms in different branches of law are now deployed to confront transnational and domestic terrorism There is also a proliferating body of soft law addressing terrorism stemming from United Nations organs specialised international bodies and regional organisations It is timely to draw together these diverse legal developments over time into a single reference work Bringing the original documents together provides for ease of reference and enables scholars practitioners and students to more easily compare and contrast various sources The book's coverage is comprehensive thematically organisationally geographically and temporally and open to a balance of sources hard and soft but is judicious in its selection and prioritisation of the most significant and representative documents in a field where there are many repetitive or insubstantial documents Importantly the book looks beyond the traditional trans Atlantic bias towards European British and American sources in this area to include materials from Asia Africa Latin America and the Middle East Taken as a whole the book aids in evidencing the emerging field of international anti terrorism law Renewable Energy Sources and Climate Change Mitigation Ottmar Edenhofer, Ramón Pichs-Madruga, Youba Sokona, Kristin Seyboth, Susanne Kadner, Timm Zwickel, Patrick Eickemeier, Gerrit Hansen, Steffen Schlömer, Christoph von Stechow, Patrick Matschoss, 2011-11-21 This Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change Special Report IPCC SRREN assesses the potential role of renewable energy in the mitigation of climate change It covers the six most important renewable energy sources bioenergy solar geothermal hydropower ocean and wind energy as well as their integration into present and future energy systems It considers the environmental and social consequences associated with the deployment of these technologies and presents strategies to overcome technical as well as non technical obstacles to their application and diffusion SRREN brings a broad spectrum of technology specific experts together with scientists studying energy systems as a whole Prepared following strict IPCC procedures it presents an impartial assessment of the current state of knowledge it is policy relevant but not policy prescriptive SRREN is an invaluable assessment of the potential role of renewable energy for the mitigation of climate change for policymakers the private sector and academic researchers

Pacific Islands Regional Millennium Development Goals Report 2004 ,2004 Pacific Islands Regional Integration and Governance Satish Chand,2005 This book brings together experts from around the world to consider specific issues pertaining to regional integration and governance within small states The authors collectively address the challenges posed to small states by the quickened pace of globalisation The lessons learnt from the experiences of small states are then used to draw policy lessons for the Pacific island countries Pacific Islands Regional Integration and Governance will be of interest and relevance to academics and advanced students of the Pacific its history and current challenges as well as the general reader who has an interest in the area Papers on Fisheries Science from the Pacific Islands P.
