

Bad Debts

The amount of trade receivables that have already become uncollectible or unrealizable is called bad debts.

In case of bad debts, the firm knows the respective debtors' account that has turned bad.

It is a loss for the business firm.

www.AccountingCapital.com

As a result of bad debts, the firm's profit & loss account is also brought down i.e. debited by the same amount.

Doubtful Debts

The amount of trade receivables that are likely to become uncollectible or unrealizable is called doubtful debts.

Here, the enterprise does not have a clear idea regarding which account might turn unrealizable in the future.

It is an anticipated loss for the enterprise.

Here, an account namely 'provision for doubtful debts' is credited by the amount of doubtful debts, and the profit and loss account is debited.
