Recent decades have seen dramatic changes in the landscape of American public education including the closure of local schools, elimination of teachers unions and local school board takeover attempts. In order to explore the social and political motivations behind these changes, the contributors address questions such as: What tactics are being used to drive this paradigm shift where teachers are the enemy and schools are harming kids? What events in this sociopolitical moment right now make it ripe for dismantling the democratic experiment of public education? In an age of sound bites and instant news, how can the nuanced and sometimes hypocritical narrative supporting public education compete for attention with the seductive political pabulum of reactionary groups? The voices in these chapters include those of curriculum theorists, policy analysts, education practitioners and leaders, and parents, all of whom engage in forms of activism at the local and/or national level.
