Livy Torrey James Luce, 2019-03-26 Professor Luce considers to what extent Livy may be said to have been in control of his historical material What is the significance the author asks of the units by which Livy structured his history How did he go about preparing himself to write and what methods did he use in the course of actual composition Did he have an interpretation of his own concerning the overall course of Roman history and if so how did it affect his selection and arrangement of material The author examines these questions largely by the means of an analysis of Books 31-45 which he compares with the work of Polybius He then scrutinizes the design of the history as a whole its author's attitude toward his sources generally and his method of composition A final chapter considers how Livy's use of material may have been influenced by his view of change and development in Roman history particularly with regard to the genesis and decline of the Roman national character By examining Livy's method of creation Professor Luce extends our understanding of his achievement T J Luce is Professor and Chairman of the Classics Department at Princeton University Originally published in 1978 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

The Harper & Row Basic Reading Program: a]

From actors to astronauts, 1966 Teaching Language and Literacy James F. Christie, Billie Enz, Carol Vukelich, 2003 The unique focus of this text integrates constructivist learning diversity and instruction based assessment and helps translate principles into practice The central underlying thesis of Teaching Language and Literacy is that children are at the center of all good language and literacy teaching The text with broad coverage of preschool through the elementary grades advocates an appreciation of student diversity and an implementation of assessment strategies relating to specific learning teaching events The text describes how children construct their own knowledge about oral and written language by engaging in integrated meaningful and functional activities with other people in a variety of contexts It then goes one step further describing how teachers can design authentic classroom reasons for using oral and written language In keeping with the text's theme illustrations of how teachers can work effectively with diverse learners appear throughout the text In addition instructionally linked assessment is another important topic central to the text
